

as well as south of Toersburg Pass, the attacking troops slowly but irresistibly moved ahead against Campulung, says the Agency, which adds:

"These mountain battles are being fought through terrain filled with snow and made impracticable by rains, between ravines and on snow-covered summits. They require the utmost energy on the part of the commanders and troops, and belong to the most difficult, but at the same time most glorious exploits of this campaign."

French Regain Portions of Sallies

BERLIN, Nov. 3, by wireless to Sayville.—Portions of Sallies-Sallies, on the Somme front, were again lost to the French yesterday, the War Office announced today. Attempts of the allies to advance east of Guedecourt and against the northern part of St. Pierre Vast Wood resulted in failure.

Russian troops charged seven times yesterday in an attempt to recapture positions taken by the Germans on the Narayuvka southeast of Lemberg. They suffered exceptionally severe losses, the War Office says, and gained no success.

Great Explosions Inside Fort Vaux

Before It Is Occupied by French.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—The French occupied Fort Vaux last evening after waiting for the cessation of great explosions inside the fort, the War Office reported today. The fort, evacuated by the Germans yesterday, passed again into the possession of the French without loss to them.

The Germans gave up the fort, the statement says, as a result of the violent French bombardment and the gradual closing in of French troops. The re-entrance of the French into this position was not contested. The ring of Verdun forts is now re-established and is held firmly by the French.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Lloyd's reports that the British steamer Briery Hill, 1115 tons, has been sunk.

RAILROAD REVENUE INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Reports from 124 out of 135 railroads whose revenues exceed $1,000,000, issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission today, show that their net revenue from railway operation ran up to $245,558,235, an increase of more than $40,000,000 over the previous September.

A complete report for July shows that all the roads of $1,000,000 revenue or more had a net revenue from railway operation of $197,558,005, a $30,000,000 increase over the previous July. The complete total railway operating revenues were $202,977,311 and total railway operating expenses $195,295,513.

REBELS IN GREECE CAPTURE TOWN ON GULF OF SALONIKI

600 Insurgents Force 150 Royalist Troops to Evacuate Katerina.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—After months of strife between the adherents of former Premier Venizelos and the staunch adherents of King Constantine over the question of Greece's stand in the war, a revolution of considerable proportions has broken out in the region southwest of Saloniki.

Only meager details are at hand, but these show that 600 insurgents, probably followers of Venizelos, with machine guns, forced 150 royalist troops to evacuate Katerina, near the Gulf of Saloniki, and retreat upon Larissa, 40 miles southwest. In Thessaly, where they are expected to receive reinforcements.

The troops, received orders from King Constantine yesterday to prevent at all costs the advance of the revolutionists.

An extraordinary situation has been created by the action of the officers of the Larissa Railway, which is controlled by the Venizelist allies, in allowing royalist military officers to send reinforcements to oppose the advance of the Venizelists.

"That the Venizelists should permit the lending of assistance in military measures against their own allies, namely the Venizelist troops, is considered incoherent and naturally surprises the Venizelists."

The Venizelist army now is said to number 20,000.

Reuter's Athens correspondent says the Greek Government has sent reinforcements of infantry and artillery. The correspondent adds that Admiral Du Fournet, commander of the allied fleet in the Mediterranean, has sent notice to the Greek harbor authorities indicating a danger zone for vessels entering or leaving Piraeus Harbor.

"Certain circles in Athens," the correspondent continues, "interpret this notice as meaning that Admiral Du Fournet has been instructed to inform the Greek authorities of the precautionary measures taken, such as the laying of mines, and it is even insinuated that the Greek steamers Angheliki and Kiki Issalas, which were sunk recently, struck mines laid by the Venizelist allies."

The French Admiral also has issued a communication saying that investigation shows that the sinking of the Greek steamer Angheliki was due to an external cause, a mine or submarine—which, owing to the measures taken by the Venizelist allies, cannot have been of other origin than German or Germany's allies. The communication says that the investigation into the sinking of the Kiki Issalas, although it has not been completed, gives evidence for a similar conclusion.

Other special dispatches give sensational details of the alleged arrest at Larissa of a German officer who was proceeding in a motor car with the German legation mail pouch, bound for the Bulgarian line. It is said the pouch contained important messages to the military attaché at Sofia and Constantinople and also detailed plans of the Suez Canal defenses. In addition, the dispatches say it contained "compromising" letters from the Greek King and Queen to the German Emperor.

TWO MORE ARRESTED IN CLEVER COUNTERFEITING PLOT

Five-Dollar Bogus Notes Deceived Tellers in New York Banks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Two men who are charged with being accomplices of H. R. Wilkens in making or passing counterfeit "Indian head" $5 bills, have been arrested in Brooklyn. Wilkens was arrested in Santa Cruz, Cal., a few days ago. One of the men held here is Wilkens' nephew, and says he was an engraver. His son was taken into custody with him.

Chief Flynn of the United States Secret Service, who made the arrests, said both had confessed to helping Wilkens manufacture counterfeit Government notes and that the younger man had admitted passing more than 800 of them in or near New York. The notes were so skillfully made as to deceive the tellers of New York banks, who were warned to watch for them, Chief Flynn said.

PLENTY OF COAL FOR WINTER

No Danger of Anthracite Famines, Say Two Pennsylvania Operators.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 3.—F. M. Chase, vice president and general manager of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., and C. F. Huber, vice president and general manager of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Co., declare there is no danger of an anthracite coal famine.

They say there is a false situation created through frenzy of people, that offers an opportunity for speculators and independent operators to reap a financial harvest.

They declare there will be plenty of coal throughout the winter and that the big companies will not increase their circular prices or sell to dealers who advance prices above the regular winter standard.

HUGHES ASSAILS DEMOCRATS FOR HIGH FOOD PRICES

Declares They Promised Reductions, but Cost of Living Has Increased.

HUDSON, N. Y., Nov. 3.—In his speech here today, Charles E. Hughes made the tariff his chief theme and assailed the Democratic party for its failure to reduce the high cost of living.

"I think they were just as eloquent in promises four years ago as they are today," Mr. Hughes said. "As I look back to the statements that were made at that time, I cannot see how anyone could have said anything more eloquent, more persuasively than was said at that time with respect to what was going to be done for American labor and American business. You would have thought at that time that the sun of promise had just begun to shine upon a benighted world and that they were going to have an entirely new condition, in which labor would profit to the utmost and American business would get an extraordinary incentive."

Prices Keep on Advancing.

"They told us, for example, that there was the high cost of living. Well, we all know that; we had very intimate knowledge of that fact; but what was still more to the point, they told us that they were going to reduce it, and that if we would only put them in power they would show us how the high cost of living was going to come down. Well, through a division in our ranks, which I am glad to say has been happily healed, they had a chance to show what they could do with this high cost of living."

"That robust companion, however, has become more and more robust, and seems to thrive on a Democratic administration. And it is mounting higher and higher, and taller and taller, and when we consider this promise in relation to present promises, we wonder whether they are going to do any better with respect to the future than they did in these recent years with respect to this highly important matter."

"While they did not reduce the cost of living, they were eminently successful in reducing the chances of making a living. They did not promise that they would reduce the cost of living; they were going to provide for the expenses of the Government through the tariff system; they were going to increase the opportunity for business, and they were going to have American enterprise, as they said, take on a new size and speed and have opportunities for American labor multiplied."

Criticizes Tariff.

"Well, they put their principle in force. They had not had a chance to do it for a great many years. They proceeded to do it with very extraordinary results. In the first place, they had a tariff for revenue only, but it was a tariff that did not produce revenue. We had a great falling off in revenue through a tariff for revenue, while we had a great increase of imports, and so in time of peace, which now they emphasize, forgetting the little wars we have had in Mexico, they had to pass what is called a war revenue bill to take care of the deficit which was the result of their fiscal policy."

"Then they said they were going to have American enterprise take on a new size and speed, and it did, a much reduced size and a much slower speed. The opportunities of labor vanished or were greatly reduced, and we had a very extraordinary condition in this country."

Hughes will end his travels as a presidential candidate today. He left Albany at 8:15 for New York city, spending the day campaigning down the Hudson Valley. Today's journey was the windup of four campaign trips which have carried him approximately 28,000 miles through 23 states.

He started, Aug. 5, from New York, and has spent virtually two and one-half months on the road.

Hughes has visited the chief cities of every Northern and New England state, except Vermont, has been through the Middle West four times, and has appeared in every Western and Northwestern state.

In addition, Hughes has visited the four so-called border states of Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri, and has spent one day in Tennessee, at Nashville.

The special train carrying the nominee is due at New York at 8:15 tonight, a speech in Brooklyn being scheduled for tonight.

$1000 IN DIMES SCATTERED ON STREET AT SIXTH AND LOCUST

The scattering of $1000 worth of new dimes over the street at Sixth and Locust streets shortly before noon today caused pedestrians to play "snatch-grabs." The scramble for the money stopped street car traffic.

A messenger for the State National Bank was carrying a canvas bag of dimes from the subtreasury. At Sixth street his foot slipped as he stepped from a curb and he fell, the bag bursting.

Traffic policemen from neighboring corners responded to a whistle signal and endeavored to keep the crowd back. When order was restored policemen obtained brooms and swept the dimes together. How many were picked up by persons in the crowd was not known at that time.

A straw vote was taken this morning among the students in the McKinley High School. The result, reported by the principal, was: Wilson, 113; Hughes, 99. NAVY SALE OF PLUG TOBACCO, DECANTERS AND WINE GLASSES

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The highest bid for 31 tons of plug tobacco bought by the United States Government for the use of the navy and condemned as not up to the standard was 13 cents. The Government paid 16 cents a pound for the tobacco.

The item was the largest in the annual sale of condemned stores yesterday at the New York Navy Yard. Bids also were received for cut glass decanters and wine glasses which have graced the sideboards of United States naval vessels, but which are now obsolete under the Navy Department's ruling forbidding the use of intoxicating liquors on Government ships.

A SURE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—ADV.

John R. Thompson, owner of 98 Pure Food Restaurants throughout the Country—in his advertisement in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Tuesday, Oct. 31st, said: "I could save $100,000 every year by serving butterine instead of butter."

Every housewife in St. Louis could save a proportionate amount by using

"Swift's Premium" Oleomargarine (Butterine)

Mr. Thompson also says: "If you wish to have Butterine served on your table at home you have a perfect right to do so, and no one on earth can criticize you for it."

There are many housewives who recognize the fact that "Swift's Premium" Oleomargarine is a clean, pure, wholesome food product made under U. S. Government supervision, and the use of this product in the home is a compliment to their thrift and good judgment.

Mr. Thompson's position that Butterine should be sold on its own merits is absolutely correct.

"Swift's Premium" Oleomargarine is sold in plainly marked cartons like this

The present laws work a hardship on the users of Butterine because the manufacturers must pay a tax of 10 cents per pound to use the same vegetable color that is used in butter. The consumer should have Oleomargarine colored the same as butter if so desired, without being penalized by a tax.

GARDNER EXPLAINS HIS ATTITUDE AS TO GOV. MAJOR

Ignores Lamm's Demand to Give Views on Present State Executive.

OPENS CAMPAIGN HERE

Declares at Big Meetings He Is Friend of Labor; Speaks at City Club.

Frederick D. Gardner, Democratic candidate for Governor, who will close his campaign in St. Louis tomorrow night, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he would continue to ignore the demand of former Judge Henry Lamm, Republican candidate for Governor, that he express his views with respect to the Major administration. Lamm, and the Republican campaign managers, have been challenging Gardner in regard to the Major administration because there is a plank in the Democratic platform which indorses the administration as wise, efficient and capable.

"Gov. Major is defending his own administration, and he is able to do it," Gardner said. "He has challenged Judge Lamm to meet him in debate on this subject. Gov. Major is responsible for his own administration, just as I shall be responsible for mine. Judge Lamm has not accepted Gov. Major's challenge."

Appeal as Business Man.
Gardner, in his speeches in St. Louis, is making an appeal to his neighbors to elect him, as a business man, who has established a business here, built his home here and reared his family here.

Gardner was told last night that Republican campaign managers had prepared to send men to his meeting to heckle him on the prohibition question. The prohibition question has not been discussed in the campaign by any candidate. Judge Lamm has ignored it. Gardner has ignored it. Gardner said today that this was a moral question and not a political question, and that there was no reason why it should be discussed by the candidates.

Gardner spoke at the City Club at noon today. He will speak tonight at Druid's Hall, Ninth and Market streets, and at 7300 Olive avenue. All were big meetings. At the City Club, Gardner said today that this was a moral question and not a political question, and that there was no reason why it should be discussed by the candidates.

He announced himself in favor of workmen's compensation, and referred his hearers to Charles Hartenstein, chairman of the Efficiency Board, and a labor leader, who is a Republican, for his record with Union labor.

He commented on the nepotism plank of the Republican platform and said his opponent, Judge Lamm, had talked against nepotism until he reached St. Louis and learned that relatives of Republican city officials draw $10,000 a year from the city in salaries.

He promised that he would not appoint any relative to a position. "Anybody in the State except my wife's relatives and my relatives can come to me for a job," he said.

At a meeting at Cherokee street and Iowa avenue, in the audience asked Gardner: "How about prohibition?"

"Are you running this meeting or am I?" Gardner replied.

When the man answered that he had merely asked a question, Gardner told him that he could have the platform if he wanted it at the close of the meeting.

Gardner did not refer in his speech to the prohibition question. It has not been made a political issue by either party in the campaign and none of the candidates has touched on it.

Other speakers at the Gardner meetings were Senator James A. Reed, candidate for re-election; Frank W. McCallister, candidate for Attorney-General, and Michael J. Gill, candidate for Congress in the Twelfth District.

Gardner Says He Has Not Promised Job to Anyone.

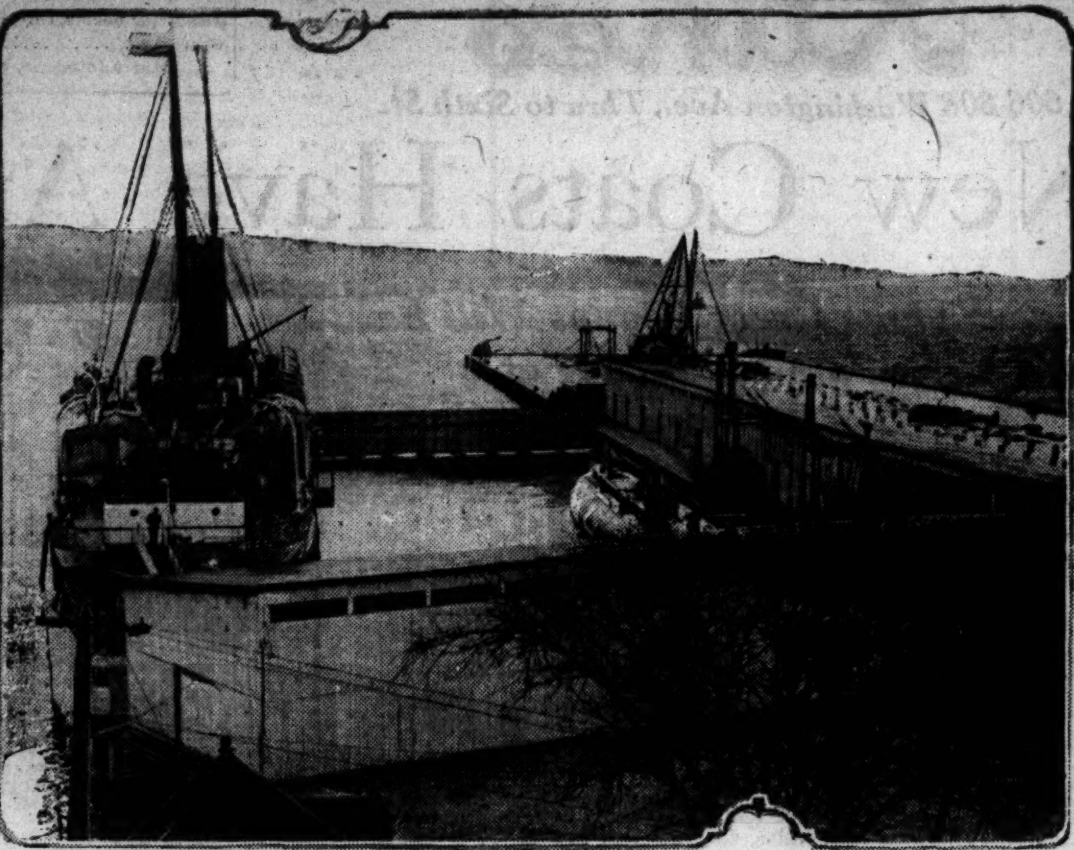

A rumor has been current among politicians for several days that Frederick D. Gardner, if elected Governor, would appoint D. C. McHugh, Warden of the Missouri Penitentiary.

Gardner, asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter about the rumor, said: "I have not promised any job to any person, and have not talked with any person about jobs. No person has approached me regarding positions, and I should feel greatly insulted if any person should, prior to election, ask me for a position. As to the penitentiary, I have not even discussed the warden-ship."

DRIFT VOTE POLL IN 5 'DOUBTFUL' STATES

Literary Digest Analyzes Its Returns on New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois.

The Literary Digest, in this week's issue, publishes the result of a straw vote which it conducted in the five States which it considers most doubtful—New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The periodical used its subscription list as a basis for the canvass.

A total of 29,280 votes was received from the five States. In each State group of ballots, Hughes is well in the lead. But the feature which is pointed out at having, perhaps, greater significance than the totals, is the indication of "drift" from one side to the other, as shown by comparing the present preference of voters with their preference in 1912.

Each voter indicated how he voted in 1912, as well as how he intends to vote next week.

In each State the "party vote" formed the greater part of the total. By this term is meant the vote which was for Wilson in 1912 and is for Wilson now, or which was for Taft or Roosevelt in 1912, and is for Hughes now. By this method of calculation, the Roosevelt vote of 1912 is treated as normally belonging to Hughes this year, and Hughes is credited with gains from the opposition only in cases where those who voted for Wilson, or for minor candidates, in 1912, have turned to Hughes this year.

After setting the "party vote" apart in each State, the gain made by each candidate from the former supporters of opposite parties is shown. In the case of New York, New Jersey and Indiana, the balance of these gains is in Hughes' favor. In Ohio and Illinois the balance is in favor of Wilson.

The summary up is as follows:
New York—Hughes party vote, 3005; Wilson party vote, 1282; Hughes' gain from opposition, 1000; Wilson's gain from opposition, 803. Hughes, total 4285; Wilson, total 2085.

New Jersey—Hughes party vote, 244; Wilson party vote, 107; Hughes' gain from opposition, 87; Wilson's gain from opposition, 64.

Ohio—Hughes party vote, 244; Wilson party vote, 107; Hughes' gain from opposition, 87; Wilson's gain from opposition, 64.

Indiana—Hughes party vote, 244; Wilson party vote, 107; Hughes' gain from opposition, 87; Wilson's gain from opposition, 64.

Illinois—Hughes party vote, 244; Wilson party vote, 107; Hughes' gain from opposition, 87; Wilson's gain from opposition, 64.

The art of keeping your furniture looking new from day to day is an easy one. It is simply a matter of bringing out the original finish in all its natural beauty, instead of applying an extra coat of artificial polish, which too often either leaves a sticky film to collect dust, or else gums or dries the varnish, thus promoting checking and cracking.

The better homes throughout the country are now using Tobey Polish because of its natural cleaning and renewing qualities. This is the same polish used by the Tobey Furniture Company (Chicago and New York) on every piece of fine furniture they make, and is made after their own secret shop formula.

Tobey Polish restores the whiteness to varnished and enameled surfaces. It does it naturally—by cleaning the finish and maintaining in its original condition. Keeps the varnish elastic and new—free from checking and cracking.

No hard work—no rubbing. Results are instantaneous. After the regular cleaning a little Tobey Polish on the dust cloth keeps everything new from day to day.

Try it on a chair, or a piano. See what a difference it makes. Use it on your automobile; see how it preserves the factory-new appearance—clean, hard finish that will not collect dust.

Tobey Polish is sold at all the better stores. Costs no more than the other kind. Bottles, 25c and 50c; quarts, $1.—ADV.

1820 MERCHANT SHIPS HAVE BEEN SUNK SINCE WAR BEGAN

Gross Tonnage Is 3,328,554. Figures Compiled by New York Newspaper Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—One thousand eight hundred and twenty merchant ships, with an aggregate gross tonnage of approximately 3,328,554, have been sunk by belligerent nations during 37 months of war ending Nov. 1, according to figures compiled from cable dispatches and mail advices published here today by the Journal of Commerce.

The losses during October were larger than for any one of the preceding five months, according to the statistics amounting to 127 vessels of a total of 227,116 tons gross. Norway lost the largest number of ships, 55, according to the statistics, but their gross tonnage was only 57,333 as compared with Great Britain's total loss of 115,544 gross tonnage of 38 vessels destroyed.

Alleged Trespassers Discharged.
Peter Fuchs, 1805 South King's highway, and John Jones, 6305 Patterson, striking iron workers, who were arrested yesterday while picketing at the plant of the Banner Iron Works, Shaw avenue and Iron Mountain tracks, on a charge of trespassing, were discharged by Police Judge Hogan this morning.

Former Missouri Man Found Dead.
BILLINGS, Mont., Nov. 3.—An unclothed body, identified as that of William Council, a clothing salesman, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., who disappeared from a ranch about 20 miles south of here, two weeks ago, was found yesterday in bushes on the ranch. It is thought he died from exposure after having removed his clothing. Dependency due to domestic troubles is said to have unsettled his mind.

Germany's Version of Sinking Essential Before State Department Decides on Course.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Conclusive evidence as to whether Germany violated her pledges to the United States in the sinking, apparently without warning, of the British freighter Marins, with the loss of six American lives, is not expected by the State Department before the latter part of next week.

Even though all information desired from British sources and American survivors of the Marins was at hand, any action by the United States Government would be delayed pending Germany's reply to the informal request for her version of the incident.

American officials in England have sent only a few dispatches in the last 24 hours, not including any affidavits or summaries of affidavits.

Secretary Lansing made a statement yesterday explaining that the State Department held that Germany's pledges not to sink merchant ships without proper provision for safety of persons on board applied to merchantmen armed for defense, as well as to unarmed vessels. Germany's last specific word on armed ships, however, was her memorandum announcing that they would be treated as war vessels, and the fact that the Marins carried a 47-inch gun is expected to play a conspicuous part in the exchanges that will follow, if it is established that she was attacked without warning.

U. S. Charge in Berlin Told to Ask About Sinking of Rowanmore.
BERLIN, via London, Nov. 3.—Secretary Joseph C. Grew of the American embassy, who is acting as charge, in the absence of Ambassador Gerard, was instructed yesterday to ask the German Government for information in regard to the sinking of the British steamship Rowanmore off Cape Clear, Oct. 28. No instructions have been received regarding the British steamship Marins.

It was said at Washington Tuesday that the American embassy at Berlin had been asked to make informal inquiries regarding the sinking of the Marins and Rowanmore, both of which had Americans on board. None of the Americans on the Rowanmore were lost. The latest available information regarding the Marins is that six of the 22 Americans on board were drowned.

CARGO MANIFEST OF DEUTSCHLAND FILED

Customs Officials to Withhold It From Public Several Days—Goods Being Unloaded.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 3.—The manifest of the German submarine Deutschland's cargo has been filed at the custom house here, but will not be made public for some time. Unloading began yesterday, 100 selected negro stevedores wheeling out hundreds of small boxes and piling them in the warehouses on the wharf. Eighty of the freight handlers came here from Baltimore, where they helped discharge the boat's cargo after her maiden trip.

The cargo proper, exclusive of the precious stones, is said to be worth $1,500,000. The dyestuffs brought over will be shipped to commercial houses in New York, Boston and Philadelphia. The remainder of the freight will be stored here temporarily.

Dr. George Ahrens, an attaché of the German embassy at Washington, spent considerable time with Capt. Koening on the Deutschland yesterday, and received five pouches, filled with mail, and a box. Questioned as to whether the Deutschland would carry mail back to Germany, he said: "Why should she carry United States mail over? If the United States can't get mail to Germany it is time to stop."

Officials of the Forwarding Co. said it was unlikely that any mail would be sent by the submarine, except official communications from Count von Bernstorff to the Emperor. It was also said that the Deutschland would not carry any medical supplies to Germany.

Commander David Boy and Commander Yates Stirling of the United States submarine base here inspected the Deutschland yesterday by Dr. George Ahrens, an attaché who was here identified that she was a commercial ship.

An official of the Eastern Forwarding Co., in answer to a question, ridiculed the suggestion that the Deutschland will act as a "mother ship" to furnish supplies to German armed submarines. He stated emphatically that the Deutschland was built solely for commercial trade and from this country. This official added that there were only two German commercial submarines, the other being the Bremen, given up for lost. The official declared that since the outbreak of the war Germany has lost only 30 submarines, including the Bremen.

Germany Embassy Still Hopes to Establish Under-Sea Mail Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—If the agents of the German merchant submarine Deutschland will signify that she is available for carrying mail to Germany the Postoffice Department will be so notified in a formal communication from the German embassy.

Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, has asked the agents to inform him on the subject. The Postoffice Department already has declared its willingness to accept a proposal to establish a regular undersea mail service.

The embassy's plans for the establishment of this service are progressing, notwithstanding statements made in New London yesterday by Dr. George Ahrens, an attaché who was here identified that she was a commercial ship.

The embassy's plans for the establishment of this service are progressing, notwithstanding statements made in New London yesterday by Dr. George Ahrens, an attaché who was here identified that she was a commercial ship.

An official of the Eastern Forwarding Co., in answer to a question, ridiculed the suggestion that the Deutschland will act as a "mother ship" to furnish supplies to German armed submarines. He stated emphatically that the Deutschland was built solely for commercial trade and from this country. This official added that there were only two German commercial submarines, the other being the Bremen, given up for lost. The official declared that since the outbreak of the war Germany has lost only 30 submarines, including the Bremen.

DELAY OF WEEK LIKELY IN ACTION ON MARINA

Germany's Version of Sinking Essential Before State Department Decides on Course.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Conclusive evidence as to whether Germany violated her pledges to the United States in the sinking, apparently without warning, of the British freighter Marins, with the loss of six American lives, is not expected by the State Department before the latter part of next week.

Even though all information desired from British sources and American survivors of the Marins was at hand, any action by the United States Government would be delayed pending Germany's reply to the informal request for her version of the incident.

American officials in England have sent only a few dispatches in the last 24 hours, not including any affidavits or summaries of affidavits.

Secretary Lansing made a statement yesterday explaining that the State Department held that Germany's pledges not to sink merchant ships without proper provision for safety of persons on board applied to merchantmen armed for defense, as well as to unarmed vessels. Germany's last specific word on armed ships, however, was her memorandum announcing that they would be treated as war vessels, and the fact that the Marins carried a 47-inch gun is expected to play a conspicuous part in the exchanges that will follow, if it is established that she was attacked without warning.

U. S. Charge in Berlin Told to Ask About Sinking of Rowanmore.
BERLIN, via London, Nov. 3.—Secretary Joseph C. Grew of the American embassy, who is acting as charge, in the absence of Ambassador Gerard, was instructed yesterday to ask the German Government for information in regard to the sinking of the British steamship Rowanmore off Cape Clear, Oct. 28. No instructions have been received regarding the British steamship Marins.

It was said at Washington Tuesday that the American embassy at Berlin had been asked to make informal inquiries regarding the sinking of the Marins and Rowanmore, both of which had Americans on board. None of the Americans on the Rowanmore were lost. The latest available information regarding the Marins is that six of the 22 Americans on board were drowned.

BURGLAR DISCOVERED IN HOME KNOCKS A WOMAN DOWN

Mrs. Schimmelpfennig Finds Intruder in Her Son's Room, but He Escapes.

Mrs. Katherine Schimmelpfennig of 462A Atholene avenue was knocked down by a burglar whom she discovered in the room of her son, Frank, at 2:45 a. m. today. She was awakened by a noise and opened the door between her room and her son's. She saw a man opening a dresser drawer. She called to him and asked him what he wanted and he turned and struck her with something he carried in his hand.

John Schimmelpfennig, her husband, heard her fall and ran to her. She said "I'm hit" and became unconscious. The burglar fled down a rear stairway.

Burned matches were found in all parts of the house and the place had been ransacked.

So far as a hasty search revealed the only thing taken was $4 from Frank Schimmelpfennig's trousers.

Mrs. Schimmelpfennig was not badly hurt. The blow landed a lump on her head, but did not cut the skin.

$14,411,000,000 IS TOTAL NATIONAL BANK RESOURCES

Amount Shown on Sept. 12 Establishes New High Record by $215,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Reports of the condition of national banks on Sept. 12, the Comptroller of the Currency announced today, show total resources of $14,411,000,000, or $215,000,000 greater than ever before. This was an increase of $485,000,000 over June 30 last and $2,144,000,000 over Sept. 1, 1915. The previous high-water mark was on May 1 last.

Total deposits amounted to $11,382,000,000, or $227,000,000 greater than ever before. The increase was $485,000,000 over June 30 and $2,123,000,000 over Sept. 2, 1915.

Deposits in central reserve bank cities from May 1 last to Sept. 12 showed a reduction of $215,000,000, while in other reserve cities there was an increase of $51,000,000 and in country banks an increase of $294,000,000. Loans and discounts were $7,839,000,000, the largest amount ever reported.

Rev. Father Kern's Funeral.
The funeral of the Rev. Father John Kern, 55 years old, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic Church, Fenelon, Mo., who died last night at St. Mary's infirmary, after a month's illness, will be Monday from the residence of his brother, Louis J. Kern, 3831 Plad avenue. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery, of which he was chaplain seven years. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kern of St. Louis and a brother of Mrs. J. J. Broderick, whose husband is president of the Broderick & Bacon Rope Co. He had been a priest 31 years.

Monroe Exchange Abolished.
Installation of a new system of ringing the four-party lines of the Forest exchange of the Bell Telephone Co. has necessitated changing the numbers of 1200 four-party Forest subscribers and has made possible the abolishment of the Monroe exchange. The 500 subscribers of the Monroe exchange have been absorbed by the Forest exchange, with new numbers.

Bell officials say the changes are made to make better conditions. The new numbers appear in the fall issue of the Bell directory, which came out coincident with the changes. Operators respond to calls for old numbers by giving the new connections.

W. E. BAIRD WILL GO SOUTH

William E. Baird of Aberdeen place, former City Counselor, who for two months has been suffering from a breakdown, will go South for a month or six weeks to recuperate. His wife said today that physicians suggested the trip.

After he became ill Baird withdrew from the firm of Boyle & Priest. He had accepted employment there in June, 1915, immediately after quitting the office of City Counselor. As City Counselor Baird conducted the successful fight to uphold the validity of the mill tax ordinance affecting the United Railways. The firm of Boyle & Priest represented the United Railways.

DAUES READY TO SUE ON POLICE PHONES

Notifies President of Kinloch Company of Proposed Action to Annul Contract.

City Counselor Daves sent today to H. Linton Reber, president of the Kinloch Telephone Co., a letter notifying him that the city will file suit to cancel the contract between the Police Board and the Kinloch company, for 21 police telephone instruments and the flashlight system.

The letter was sent at the direction of Mayor Kiel and Comptroller Player.
Daves declined to make its wording public until Reber should have time to consider it.

The contract was inaugurated May 25, 1910, and was for five years. After it was entered into, it was interpreted by the City Counselor as being a separate contract for each individual telephone box or flashlight station. It was also held that the city must give 30 days' notice of its desire to discontinue any of these stations, or the contract would automatically be renewed for one year.

Boxes were installed at different times, and two recent members of the Police Board, S. B. McPheeters and Thomas S. Marfit, have said that they were unable to get from the telephone company a record of the dates when the different box contracts would expire.
For this reason, they said, most of the box contracts were extended for a year.
The city is prepared to install its own telephone and signal system and has installed 23 boxes in the Eighth Police District. This work of installation was halted when the present Police Board, of which Walter D. Thompson is president, failed to approve the minutes of the previous meeting, at which the board, then headed by McPheeters, authorized the work.

Thompson's name appears in the new directory of the Kinloch Telephone Co.
as one of the directors of the Kinloch Long Distance Telephone Co., an affiliated company.

The rental paid to the Kinloch company is $5.25 a box annually. The city, according to the estimate of Supt. John of the fire alarm and municipal telephone system, can put in its own system for $16,000, and can save $200 a year, besides owning its own equipment.

The Misses' Store—FIRST IN SMARTEST COATS FOR MISSES AND YOUTHFUL WOMEN

"THE Coat's the thing" in the world of fashion this season, and the Misses' Store has responded to the unusual demand for Coats—in its usual efficient manner—from the least expensive to the most exclusive models. One will find here Coats with all the youthful charm and distinctive fashion touches. The values of the Coats are, indeed, out of the ordinary.

Velour Coats, $14.75 to $65 Bolivia Coats, $35 to $75

More than 50 distinctive styles, in various weights, each model designed in becoming youthful styles. Some high-waisted, others loose or belted styles—many with fur collars and cuffs, or fur trimming. Colors are taupe, Burgundy, gold, plum, brown, green and navy. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Stunning modes of genuine Bolivia, in flaring models, belted or fitted styles. Coats have the popular large patch or slash pockets. Some with and some without fur trimmings. Colors are Burgundy, brown, navy blue, taupe and green. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

These sale groups for Saturday include smart, youthful garments that measure up in every way to the apparel standard of the Misses' Store. Many are exact duplicates of much more expensive models—of wool velour, chinchilla and broadcloth, in Burgundy, plum, brown, dark green and navy blue. Some are full lined, others lined to the waist, while still others of heavier weight materials that require no lining. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Misses' Coats Special at $14.75, $19.75 and $24.75
at $35

All of the garments in this lot are considerably reduced from their former prices.
Included are Suits of wool velour, finest gabardines, velveteen and broadcloth. Many are richly fur-trimmed, others plainly tailored. The colors are brown, navy blue, tan, green, Burgundy and plum. Sizes 14 to 20.

DUCK IS OUT ON A DRUNK AND OWNER IS HUNTING IT

Bird Obtained at Church Fair Stolen and Taken on Rounds of Saloons; East Crackers Roasted in Whisky.

Michael J. Gallagher of 820 Lanox avenue, Wellston, a whisky salesman, is looking for a brindle duck which was intoxicated when seen making the rounds of Wellston saloons Monday night.

Gallagher obtained the duck at a church fair. Its quack, he says, was like the bark of a dog and this was a protection to 25 chickens owned by Gallagher. When a chicken thief would approach the duck would quack. The thief would think there was a dog in the yard and go away.

The duck disappeared last Saturday. Deputy Sheriff Runde was put on the trail and he learned that last Monday night a man took the duck to various saloons and fed it on cracker crumbs and whisky until it was drunk. Runde said he was informed the duck staggered into the city and was picked up by a policeman at the Page Boulevard Station.

50 Autos Stolen Since Saturday.

Six more automobiles were stolen by joy riders last night, bringing the total since last Saturday up to 50. Those criven off belonged to City Councilor Charles H. Daves of 3153 Halliday avenue; J. C. Salzgeber 4132 Bingham avenue; Edmund Koethe, 3830 Morganford road; Dr. Edward Murphy, 454 Gibson avenue; Overland Motor Co., 239 Locust street; and Thomas Schilling, 406 Natural Bridge avenue. All were recovered.

That touring car may be sold with least delay through a Post-Dispatch Want Ad. and runabouts and electric cars find ready purchasers through the "Wants."

PROHIBITION BENEFITS DENVER, BANKER SAYS

Business in Many Lines Helped,
Gordon Jones Declares in Address Here.

Gordon Jones, president of the United States Bank of Denver and also president of the Colorado Bankers' Association, in a prohibition speech last night at the Union Methodist Church, Delmar boulevard near Grand avenue, told of business conditions in Colorado under state-wide prohibition.

As a banker, Jones said, he had feared prohibition would hurt business in Denver. He contributed toward a campaign fund to defeat prohibition. But after observing the effects of prohibition on business, he said, he was converted to state prohibition.

"The constitutional amendment was adopted Nov. 2, 1914, by 11,873 majority," Jones said. "This was a greater surprise and shock to me than would be to the adoption of your proposed constitutional amendment No. 3, by 50,000 majority."

Jones quoted figures in many lines of business, showing how, in the last 10 months, there had been increases. These increases he attributed to "prosperity following prohibition."

He said there had been an increase of 28 per cent in Denver bank clearings; increase of 16.4 per cent of deposits in banks and trust companies; 18,978 new savings accounts opened; an increase of between $50,000 and $60,000 in postal savings accounts; gain of 9.5 in the total postal receipts; increase of 58.67 per cent in building permits; decrease of 46.5 per cent in business failures; substantial shortening of delinquent tax list; increase in property and rental values.

The speaker produced a pamphlet entitled "Remorse of Denver," in which it was stated that 376 places, naming them, are renting for less money than they did prior to Jan. 1, last, when the prohibition law went into effect. "An investigation shows that the list is confined to 275 saloons and hotel bars," Jones said.

Jones' speech about $450 was raised to publish extracts from his address, as newspaper advertising, in prohibition amendment at the election next Tuesday. Jones is a son of the Rev. A. B. Jones of Liberty, Mo.

PRESIDENT WILSON INDORSED BY AMERICANS IN MEXICO CITY

Club Approves Nonintervention, Non-recognition of Huerta, Recognition of Carranza.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3.—Resolutions were adopted yesterday by the Woodrow Wilson Club of Mexico City, composed of Americans. In part the resolutions read:

"We are convinced that the re-election of President Wilson will be for the best interests of both the United States and Mexico and will insure a satisfactory solution of the existing international difficulties.

"We emphatically indorse non-recognition of the traitor, assassin, usurper Huerta, the most shameless and abhorrent criminal of the country."

"We feel certain that the high moral stand of our President in this respect establish a splendid precedent and example, which will have a beneficial influence throughout the world."

"We indorse the recognition of Carranza as the head of the constitutional Government, which manifestly represents the ideals, aspirations and hopes of the Mexican people for liberty, democracy and progress, and which is, despite the most formidable obstacles, making a steady headway with every assurance of success."

U. S. DOES NOT WANT TERM 'AMERICAN FLYING CORPS' USED

Note to France Says It Puts Country in False Light as a Neutral Country.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The French Government has been asked to discontinue referring to American aviators in the French army as members of the American corps, because of the false light in which such reference places the United States as a neutral nation. A large number of Americans are now serving in the French flying corps and all have taken an oath of allegiance to France.

Americans who have taken an oath of allegiance to Great Britain or France or any of the other warring nations of Europe are no longer citizens of the United States and are not entitled to receive passports from the State Department or to the protection of the Government.

This ruling became known when the State Department recently refused to issue a passport to Theodore Marburg Jr. of Baltimore, a member of the British Royal Flying Corps. Young Marburg's father was formerly United States Minister to Belgium and if an exception were to be made in his case it doubtless would have been made for him.

ALLIES CONFISCATED 40,820 BAGS OF MAIL, BERLIN SAYS

24,000 Pouches Were From Germany and 16,820 From Britain, Report for Ten Months Says.

BERLIN, Nov. 3, by wireless to Sayville.—Altogether 40,820 bags of mail from Germany and 16,820 bags destined for Germany were confiscated by the British and French authorities from December, 1915, to the end of September, 1916, says the Overseas News Agency. The news agency asserts that only a small part of the seized mail was afterwards redispached to its destination. The seizures, as given by the news agency, follow:

From Germany—To the United States, on Dutch, Danish and Norwegian steamers, 17,110 bags. To Spain, Portugal and South America, on Dutch and Norwegian steamers, 828 bags. To the Dutch Indies, on Dutch steamers, 866 bags.

To Germany—From the United States, on Dutch, Danish and Norwegian steamers, 13,861 bags. From Spain, Portugal and South America, on Dutch and Norwegian steamers, 293 bags. From Dutch Indies, on Dutch steamers, 525 bags.

INQUIRY FROM SAN FRANCISCO ABOUT NONPARTISAN BALLOT

The Nonpartisan Ballot Committee, 510 Rialto Building, today received a letter from Edward Rainey, Secretary to the Mayor of San Francisco, inquiring as to the progress of the campaign in St. Louis, for the adoption of the preferential voting system. San Francisco will vote on this same proposition, under a charter amendment, next Tuesday.

"San Francisco long ago abolished the use of party names on the ballots in city elections," Secretary Rainey writes, "and as a result the situation is highly satisfactory to the electors. We expect the charter amendment for preferential voting to be adopted at the coming election."

PRESIDENT AND MRS. WILSON ARE BACK AT SHADOW LAWN

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Nov. 3.—President Wilson returned this forenoon from New York. He made the trip from New York to Atlantic Highlands on the naval yacht Mayflower and then went to Shadow Lawn by automobile. Mrs. Wilson accompanied him.

The President will deliver his last speech of the campaign here tomorrow afternoon at a celebration of "Old Home day" before a gathering of neighbors from New Jersey. In it he is expected to sum up the issues of the campaign. On Tuesday the President will motor to Princeton to vote.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR LIQUOR

Each Passenger on C. & O. May Carry CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 3.—Orders issued by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad today announce the creation of two special trains, beginning tomorrow, in which persons carrying legally labeled liquor will be permitted to travel. The trains will move each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, between Ashland, Ky., and Charleston. Each passenger may carry one suitcase filled with liquor, the case to be no larger than 24 by 18 by 4 inches.

Persons will not be permitted to transport liquor on regular trains, a regulation which has been in force some time.

Answering the Question— How Can the High Cost of Clothing Be Overcome

The thousands of people who look to this growing establishment for Greater Clothing Values will enthusiastically welcome this announcement. In face of the nation-wide increase in cost of woollens, trimmings and materials of every sort this store has refused to follow others in the general advance of prices. Instead we have taken the daring alternative of reaching out for a tremendous increase in sales by reducing the profits to an extent that would be foolhardy if not figured on an immense increase in volume of business. We have carefully planned this great event. Over $250,000 worth of new Fall and Winter merchandise has been most advantageously bought for spot cash, and is now assembled ready to sell at minimum prices. Thus this enlarged store answers the question of rising costs in the form of an overwhelming

TRAIN KILLS FATHER OF SIX

Man Walking on Oak Hill Track Fatally Hurt.

Flory Gansner, a laborer, 45 years old, of 119 West Robert avenue, died at the city hospital at 7:15 o'clock last night from injuries he sustained at 4:40 p. m., when he was run down by an Iron Mountain passenger train on the Oak Hill tracks near Ivory avenue.

He was walking along the tracks and apparently did not hear the whistle as the train bore down upon him. He had a wife and six children.

Valued New Rose at $15,000.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 3.—Search is being made for a name for a new "Made-in-America" rose developed by John Cook, aged 32, of Baltimore. He values the rose at $15,000. Specimens have a diameter of more than five inches. The color is a lovely pink.

HUGHES SAYS IT WAS EASY TO KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR

Tells Albany (N. Y.) Audience That All Nations in Struggle Needed Our Friendship.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Charles E. Hughes, speaking here last night, declared his belief that he would win the electoral votes of Ohio, Indiana and New York. Asserting that he was "looking forward to the responsibilities of administration" he outlined what he regarded as "the essential conditions of national leadership."

Hughes addressed an audience that had waited nearly three hours to hear him. He was introduced by William Barnes, former Republican State Chairman. The nominee in previous speeches today had declared that he had no apologies to make for his attacks on the administration for its foreign policy, had characterized as "very crude and unwarrantable," the suggestion that a vote for him meant a vote for war, and he declared his opposition to a "muddle of middle" in America's foreign relations.

"The executive is the guardian of the national honor," Hughes declared. "He has a very wide discretion in the management of our foreign relations. He has his own judgment almost exclusively as his guide, and he is not supposed to exercise that judgment except in conformity to the well established principles of international law."

"It is not a whim that he should consider—it is not a loose generality, a conceived service to humanity that should engage his attention. It is his duty to have his country adopt and follow correct principles of international action recognized by the nations of the world, and thus maintain the respect to which we are entitled and give us an opportunity to have a growing interest through that esteem by which indeed we can maintain our rights and in the end truly serve humanity."

Hughes replied to a statement in a recent speech of President Wilson as follows:

"It is not that we should be truculent. It is not that we should go about with any bragging assertion of power. It is not that we should engage in bluster. I like the phrase, 'the peace of a gentleman,' but the peace of a gentleman is not the peace of a gentleman who is afraid, alert in his self-respect and meeting his rights, quietly and calmly, ready to maintain them. That is the peace of a gentleman."

In his speech here, as in other speeches during the day, Hughes declared that "there never has been a time, perhaps, in our history when it was easier to keep the nation out of war than during the past few years, when every nation engaged in the great strife abroad desired our friendship and would not, by reason of any assertion of our just rights, forfeit that friendship."

Delayed by Parade.

The nominee was an hour late in reaching Albany. His address here was further delayed by a street parade, many blocks long, which he headed. On his way to the hall the nominee was cheered by crowds on the sidewalks.

Introducing Hughes, Chairman Barnes said:

"There is one quality the people demand in a man who would hold high office. In his responsibility to the great people he owes the obligation that his deeds should conform with his words. That the American people have not now, but will have in Mr. Hughes."

The nominee was cheered extensively when he arose.

"I come to you after several days of a very remarkable experience in the states of Ohio and Indiana," Mr. Hughes said. "I suppose no candidate for the presidency ever received a more generous greeting than I received in those states. It demonstrated the interest that is felt by the people of this country in the issues of the campaign; and as I believe put beyond question the victory of the national ticket in both Ohio and Indiana as well as in New York."

"We are now looking forward to the responsibilities of administration and I desire to speak to you with respect to what I regard the essential conditions of national leadership to be.

President Wilson is a leader.

"The executive is intended to be a leader, but his leadership has primarily to do with the performance of certain constitutional duties of the gravest importance to the people. He is not chosen to follow the whims of his fancy, nor to indulge in a license of freedom to follow his own personal choices in any direction to which his imagination might lead him.

"He is the executive under our constitutional system, charged with the duty of managing the great business affairs of the United States. His first duty is to give to the country an efficient administration of the public business. It is perfectly idle for us to expect, in the trying days to which undoubtedly we shall be called in the coming years, the prosperity which we desire to enjoy, unless we have in this country exhibited, as indeed are exhibited in many countries abroad, the highest standards of administrative work in our public service.

"The executive should surround himself in the various departments of public work with the very ablest talent at his command. He should never permit diplomatic agencies, for example, the organization of our great State Department and the representation of the nation in all its international relations, to be subordinated to a narrow conception of supposed partisan exigency. America should stand in her diplomacy with a high prestige won and maintained by the character and special ability of the men who represent her in the councils of the nations and our international affairs.

"We shall speak in vain of the preparedness we should have for our national defense unless the great departments that have to deal with the expenditures of the vast sums required for this purpose are under the leadership of the most competent men. I do not care to be told that great amounts of money have been appropriated for the purpose of equipping our navy unless I am assured that we will have the business capacity in the management of the Navy Department which will assure well-spent dollars, and a navy when the dollars are spent.

"Nor do I care for paper rearmaments of the army, or mere bills for the

BOOKS CLOSE WITH 173,760 VOTERS' NAMES

Largest Number Ever Enrolled in St. Louis by 3459—Record Made in 1910.

The revised registration of St. Louis voters for next Tuesday's election is 173,760. This is the largest number ever enrolled here. The registration of 1910, an "off year," had previously held the record. It was 170,301. The proposed prohibition amendment to the Constitution, and the Reed-Francis senatorial fight, helped to bring about a full registration in that year.
Four years ago, when Missouri was conceded to the Democrats, and the only contests of interest were for local offices, the registration was 155,968.
The present registration record was completed by the enrollment yesterday and the day before of 219 voters who were absent from the city on the regular registration days and 189 who were ill on those days. An additional 129 had application for registration as "absentees and invalids," but did not appear before the Election Board's clerks because, in most cases, they did not have time to stand in line. These did not get on the lists, and hence cannot vote this year.
During the 15 working days ending Wednesday the board transferred the names of 646 voters who had moved from one precinct to another since the August registration. Those transfers made no difference in the total number.
The polls will open in all the 500 precincts at 6 o'clock next Tuesday morning and will close at 7 p. m.

SCHOOL TEACHER AND TWO CHILDREN STRUCK BY AUTOS

Miss Ada Tanner's Skull Fractured in Accident at Page and Clara; Driver Arrested.

A school teacher and two children were injured by automobiles yesterday afternoon. Miss Ada Tanner, 40 years old, of 5593 Page boulevard, a teacher in the Franklin School, was crossing Page boulevard at Clara avenue at 6:30 o'clock when the automobile of Fred G. Hayes, 37 years old, of 1532 Lewis place, St. Louis County, knocked her down. She was taken unconscious to St. Luke's Hospital, where it was found her skull was fractured. Hayes was arrested.

While a policeman at California and Lafayette avenues was holding back school children on their way home to let traffic pass, John Chain, 6 years old, of 2706 Geyer avenue, slipped under the officer's arm and started across the street. He was struck by the automobile of Albert Kunze, 4450 Page boulevard and his forehead was cut.

While Bengtstarr, 5 years old, of 1422 Olive street, was struck by the automobile of N. W. Ewing, of 54 Kingsbury place at Fourteenth and Pine streets. Ewing took the boy home and then reported to Central Police Station.

REPORTS HE IS ROBBED, BUT JEWELS ARE SAFE AT HOTEL

Guest of Marquette Misses Valuable
When at Another Hotel and Police Search Follows.

A man who said his name was Bill
Green and he was a guest at the Marquette Hotel met a policeman at El-teenth and Olive streets about 4 a. m.
today and told of having been robbed of $40 and diamonds worth $200 by a woman with whom he had gone to the Edison Hotel, Elteenth and Chestnut streets.

His complaint first made to the night clerk at the Edison and later to the police, caused a great scouring of detectives to take up the trail of the missing gems. The detectives at 10 a. m. today learned that the diamonds and money were safe in the strong box at the Marquette Hotel, where Green left them before he went out last night.
At the hotel it was said "Green" was a guest, but that was not his real name.

SOCIETY

THIS will be the opening night of the Odeon and Opera season at the Odeon and the evening of a second annual ball for the benefit of the St. Louis Children's Hospital, at Moolah Temple.

The Odeon undoubtedly will be filled with its usual fashionable and musical audience and the charity ball promises to equal the record of last year for originality and brilliance and everybody—socially speaking—will be entertained to the limit.

Many of the opera goers will end up at the ball, which will offer Hawaiian dancing, costumes, moving pictures, a wonderful supper and about every attraction that can be thought of.

Already there are more than 500 reservations. All the decorations from the Rumsey-Holland and the Busch-Orthwein weddings will be used.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brookings Wallace of the St. Regis Apartments have as their guest Miss Corinne Cooper of Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Henry S. Turner of 4067 Berlin avenue will entertain at luncheon in honor of Miss Jane Taylor, whose marriage to Edward Gillette Hotchkiss will take place Nov. 9.

Mrs. Louis E. Newman of 5381 Waterman avenue will give a reception on the afternoon of Dec. 3 from 3 to 5 o'clock, in honor of Dr. Newman's niece, Miss Neoma Walsh. Miss Ruth Combs will be included.

Miss Henriette Sharwood Newman, Dr. and Mrs. Newman's daughter, who has been in the West for the last year, will return for Thanksgiving and will be in the receiving line at the reception. Miss Newman is at present visiting friends of her mother's in Oklahoma City, where her fiancé, Moulton Green, is engaged in business.

Miss Walsh is the granddaughter of Mrs. Socrates Newman and one of the debutantes this winter. She is a graduate of the Sacred Heart Convent and has been studying art at the Washington University.

Miss Emilie Maffitt of 415 Westminster place is spending several weeks in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Pelham H. Turner of 4 North King's highway, accompanied by Miss Anna Benoit and Charles G.

Ewing, departed this morning for a motor trip to Chicago, where they will stay over Saturday, returning home Sunday.

Miss Anna Wright Benoit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Benoit of 623 Berlin avenue, gave a luncheon yesterday in honor of Miss Mary Frances Joy, one of the brides of the season. There were 19 guests, among them Mrs. W.
Pelham H. Turner, Mrs. Edwin T. Stan-ard, Mrs. Andrew Jackson Lindsey, Misses Cornelia McNair, Grace Taylor,
Katherine Scott and Marie Wright. Miss Miriam Benoit, who has been in Washington, D. C., and the East since last summer, is expected home Wednesday to stay until February, when she will join some friends at Palm Beach for the season.

Mrs. G. Herbert Walker entertained at luncheon today at her residence, 12 Hortense place in honor of Miss Mary Frances Joy. Among the guests, who numbered 19, were Misses July Collins, another debutante, and Catherine Dameron, Mary D. Jones and Marie Ewing Wight.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Joy, who have been stopping at the Westmoreland Hotel since their arrival from New York, have leased the Robert L. Hodges apartment in the Oxford and will take possession of it about Nov. 15.

LAMM MAKES FIVE NIGHT SPEECHES HERE

Touches Major as a Dancer and Denounces Administration for Its Extravagance

Henry Lamm, Republican candidate for Governor, speaking at five meetings in St. Louis last night, criticized the Major administration for extravagance, humorously touching on the Governor's dinner, and predicted that because of public dissatisfaction with the Democratic administration, Republicans would be elected to State offices Tuesday.

Lamm spoke in Northwestern Hall, 2704 St. Louis avenue; in South St. Louis Turner Hall, Tenth and Carroll streets; in Swiss Hall, 2726 Arsenal street; to negroes in Pythian Hall, 3533 Pine street, and in Mount Moriah Hall, Garrison and Natural Bridge avenues.

He had spoken twice in the afternoon, once at the City Club and once at St. Charles, and was very hoarse by night. Commenting on this he said that while his voice might be hoarse, his legs, his "backbone" and his heart were all right.

"The Governor of Missouri ought to have a voice, of course," he said, "but he ought to have something besides a voice and feet." This apparent reference to Gov. Major's dancing abilities brought a laugh from the crowd.

Lamm's speeches were along the same line as speeches he has delivered at many meetings throughout the State. At the City Club yesterday he said that if elected Governor he would be governed only by "duty, common sense and honor" in administering the affairs of the State. He said that "nobody has a hook in my law to dictate my appointments."

This was considered by his hearers as a reply to reports that Lamm would be governed in his St. Louis appointments by Joseph D. Howe.

Other speakers at the Lamm meetings were Congressmen Meeker and Dyer.

NEW ELECTRIC UNIT ON ST. PAUL

Mileage Changed From Steam Now Totals $36.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Announcement was made today by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway that it has added 110 miles to its electrically operated lines in Montana. The last stretch of track turned over to the electric signposts extends from Deer Lodge to Alberton, Mont., and is the third unit to be changed from steam to electricity, bringing the electrified mileage up to 220.

Work on the fourth and last unit between Alberton, Mont., and Avery, Idaho, is now being completed and when that is ready, about the first of the year, the St. Paul will have 440 miles of electric line in operation.

No matter who made your glasses, the nearest Aloe store can repair them—on short notice—any hour of the business day.

A new lens—the exact duplicate of a broken one—can be ready for delivery in a surprisingly short time.

All you need to do to get such service—which costs no more—is to step into either of the Aloe stores today and let us make an exact record of your lenses—do this now—don't wait till glasses are broken.

(Broken pieces of a lens will do, if you neglect to attend to this until too late. But you lose time that way.)

BOY SCULPTOR WINS AN ART LEAGUE PRIZE

W. K. Hancock, 15, Receives Second Award Against Professionals in Medal Contest.

The winning of second prize in the St. Louis Art League's medal competition, awards for which were made yesterday, by Walker K. Hancock, a 15-year-old student in Central High School, furnished a surprise because he has been studying sculpture but two years, during which time he has taken lessons only one day a week—Saturdays—in the school of fine arts in Washington University.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Hancock of 4322 McPherson avenue. The boy's father is an attorney and was Assistant Circuit Attorney under Folk.

Although Hancock's model will not be used to cast the official medal of the league, that honor having gone to the winner, Ulrich H. Ellerhusen of New York City, the boy will be rewarded for his work by receiving a check for $100. Ellerhusen will receive $250 for his model and Frederick B. Clarke, also of New York City, who took third prize, will receive $50.

The models have been placed in the art room of the St. Louis Public Library, where they will be on exhibition for a week. The winning model on one side shows the large head of Pallas Athene, the goddess of the fine arts. In connection with the head are shown the various symbols of the art professions. On the reverse side is shown the figure of a young woman, typifying the human spirit inspired by the flight of Pegasus, the genius of art.

Hancock's model on one side shows a figure of Fame seated on a Greek chair, with a scroll of honor unrolled in front of her, while alongside burns the lamp of Greece, symbolizing the light of art and science. One the reverse side is shown a wreath of laurel leaves, held together with a running band and interwoven with the different insignia of art, drama, sculpture, poetry and music.

The third successive model shows on the obverse side the nude figure of nature. Around the figure are grouped the different attributes of the fine arts, and on the reverse side are shown two cupids upholding the seal of the city of St. Louis. All the models are inscribed with the words "St. Louis Art League" and "For Merit," which was a condition of the contest.

The jury of awards consisted of Victor S. Holm, sculptor; G. F. A. Brueseman, architect; E. H. Wuerpel, painter; and Percy Warner, layman. Warner is chairman of the Committee on Competitions of the Art League.

AGREEMENT WITH MEXICO MUST DEAL WITH INTERNAL AFFAIRS

This Made Plain in Nine Weeks of Joint Conference Which Adjourns to Nov. 10.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 3.—The net result of the nine weeks of conference of the Mexican-American Joint Commission which adjourned yesterday over the election until Nov. 10, is that the Mexican Commissioners have learned that any agreement by the commission must cover not only the policing of the frontier but Mexican internal affairs. The American Commissioners insist that any adjustment must deal with the basic principles of Mexican Government.

The Americans have made it plain to the Mexicans that before Gen. Pershing's troops are withdrawn, Mexico must demonstrate that the presence of American troops in Mexico, or even along the border, is unnecessary to prevent raids by bandits.

"SKINNY" GOLDEN IS ARRESTED

Accused of Firing Several Shots at His Son.

John J. (Skinny) Golden, former saloon keeper and politician, was arrested late last night at his home, 1112 North King's highway, after he had fired several shots at his son, James Golden, 24 years old. The son ran from the house after the shooting and did not return. Golden told the police that his son had anguished him by trying to take the family bulldog from the yard. He furnished bond for his release.

Golden formerly had two saloons, one at Thirteenth and Market streets and the other at King's highway and Manchester avenue. His license were revoked three months ago following a series of fights at the place on Manchester avenue.

GEORGE KIMBALL SMITH ESTATE

Lumberman Killed by Fall Had Personal Property Worth $7254.

An inventory of the estate of George Kimball Smith, St. Louis lumberman, who was killed in a fall from a ninth-story window of the Boatmen's Bank Building, Aug. 2 last, was filed in the Probate Court in Clayton this morning. Personal property amounting to $7254 and a lot in Crawford County, Kan., upon which no valuation is placed, and commissions on lumber sales amounting to $206.87 are listed. Mrs. Lora A. Smith, his widow, is sole beneficiary.

Where is a Woman to Go for Shoes

THE Proverb says, "Beware the fury of a patient man." It doesn't say anything about the fury of a patient woman. It just leaves you to guess!

Woman as a rule is a shrewder buyer than man—more exacting and careful, with a quicker eye for defects.

She has been patient about her shoes, but the shoe situation is getting on her nerves. Her usual judgment of shoe-quality does not work out today. She is beginning to suspect that manufacturers and dealers are not telling her the facts. She can stand anything better than deception.

Women's shoes are made of kid skin. These skins come from India, Russia, South America, and the poorer ones from Africa and China. They are tanned and finished here.

Owing to the war, lack of ships, and Europe's buying here, finished kid-leather doubled in price. High-tops took 50 per cent. more to each pair of shoes. Shoe prices went up and quality went down.

What a woman resents are the imitations and substitutes: the cheap Chinese goat, the "capes" from South Africa—coarse and raspy, with the hair-cells showing prominently in the leather—the Cabrettas (a cross between a sheep and a goat) and the sheep-skins that chafe and peel and scuff off where the skirt rubs the shoe. It tries a woman's patience to find these cheap shoes so colored and finished that she can't tell the difference—when buying them. Even the experienced shoe-dealer can't tell, though he won't often admit it.

Women find they must stop the haphazard buying of shoes: they begin to see that one can not get more out of a shoe than was put into it by some maker's character and integrity and reputation. They want to know who made the shoe!

The purpose, the institution, back of the shoe is what gives you in Regal Shoes the best shoe value in America for the money. That is why there are over two million wearers of Regal Shoes.

The demand of our trade for better and better shoes led us to the highest grade of shoe-making—$5, $6, $7 shoes.

In order to put a better shoe on your foot at a given price, we have established our own stores.

There are forty Regal Stores in the Metropolitan Centers, and about one thousand dealers, special Regal representatives, in other towns and cities—all giving you the Regal values. Price stamped on the sole of every shoe.

Because of our exacting city trade, Regal styles have to be in the very forefront of the fashion.

We have specialized for twenty years in developing the smartest fashions in lasts that give comfort on the foot.

All our leathers are of special tannage. In our women's kid shoes we use nothing but selected kid-skins.

You want style and good looks; and you want honest leather and fine workmanship. You want a 'glove' shoe that will wear.

You can't get it for $4 any more. We advise you to pay $5 and up—and to get Regal Shoes if you can.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Misleading Resolution.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In Monday Morning's paper we find that the Executive Board of the German-American Alliance resolved, endorsing the Republican national ticket. This act in itself may be privileged.
It is an expression of a few to influence many members of an organization, whose influence against the passage of sumptuary laws—and prohibition laws was not the least of them—had a good purpose. However, when the resolution embodies a statement not based on facts it is well to repeat it. It follows:

It is the duty of all loyal American citizens to defeat and vote against Woodrow Wilson, since he has permitted the seizure and rifling of American mails and the stealing of the trade secrets by Great Britain.

The paper also reports that among those present was Judge Charles F. Gallencomp, president City Alliance, Union, Mo. It is unbelievable that a Judge should have let a statement known to be false, to go before the public without at least challenging its truthfulness; as the President did not permit the seizure and rifling of American mails and the stealing of the trade secrets by Great Britain.

When we consider the slanderous campaign statement issued, would it be impertinent to ask: What became of the 1100 bags of United States mail on the Lusitania, which was sunk by orders of the Kaiser and 118 American men, women and children were assassinated in the name of righteousness. Why not then charge the President with permitting the seizure of those mail bags. By the way, what became of them; is the Kaiser studying our trade secrets? Needn't mind the dead, they are not a living issue—but the trade secrets, ah! what became of them in the Lusitania?

Many German Republican citizens, who are not in accord with President Wilson's neutrality, fearing Roosevelt's influence, will not vote for Hughes, but with me, for the Socialist candidate, Allen L. Benson. J. P. H.

The Hughes Hammer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Just a word from an independent: Hughes can see no good in President Wilson. He has not one word of commendation for anything Wilson has done. He is out with his hammer hammering away at Wilson and all his works. Now if it is the purpose of Hughes, in case of his election, to hammer down everything that Wilson has so wisely built up, how could any thoughtful citizen think of voting for him? I shall cast my vote for Wilson. AN INDEPENDENT VOTER.

Wilson or Hughes?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
President Wilson promoted good business and demoted bad. The long list of wise, beneficial and necessary laws enacted by the Wilson administration shames and scares the Republican candidates. The progressive and constructive record of the Democratic party has exposed the rotten record of the Republican officials. The electorate is disgusted with the stand-pat and reactionary rulers of the Republican party. Candidate Hughes is intensely jealous of the splendid achievements of Woodrow Wilson.

One may rationally presume from his expressed and implied views and criticisms that, if elected, he would repeal or amend the legislative enactments of the Democratic party. The logical conclusion from his stump utterances is that he would reverse the foreign policies of President Wilson. He asserts he is opposed to war, but denounces the policies of President Wilson, which have preserved us from war.

A vote for Hughes is a license to destroy or endanger our present priceless peace and prosperity. President Wilson is the foremost exponent of international law and the chief champion of neutrality. He has demonstrated that he is a past and present master of diplomacy. His official record and recognized ability make him the logical head of the Government for another term. Woodrow Wilson, under the merit system, has the call to a re-election. H. S. KRAFT.

United Railways "Mill-Stones"

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I have read the "wall" of Mr. McCulloch and of Judge Priest on behalf of the United Railways and Co. in the daily press. It amounts to the cry "The United Railways Co. is sinking, because the mill tax is a millstone around its neck."
I speak from news items. It was stated that the mill tax amounts to $235,000 per annum; that the contract by which the United Railways Co. buys its power costs the company more than $200,000 per annum than if it operated its own power plant.

Which is the larger "millstone" and what plans have Mr. McCulloch and Judge Priest for its removal? JOHN B. MUTH.

PARTISAN LIES.

The Republican National Committee strains demagogism to the limit in the advertisements it is putting out at huge expense in the newspapers and periodicals. These costly campaign documents represent the last desperate attempt to confuse and mislead the public mind on the issues of the campaign and the admirable record of the Wilson administration.

"Back to the Bread Line, if the Wilson Tariff Is Not Repealed" is a good example of gross misrepresentation, deliberately designed to delude voters. Every alleged fact in the list of alleged calamities which followed the adoption of the Underwood tariff law is either an error or a distortion. The Underwood tariff act was passed in response to a general demand from Democrats, Progressives and many Republicans who were sick of the robber tariff. The act is good, commended by all who are not interested in tariff graft.

If the act were all that its partisan critics pronounce it the danger of the dumping of European goods on America after the war would be nil. It is a bugaboo concocted to frighten children. We are now sending millions of dollars to Europe to keep their ruined human millions from starvation. Of the millions the Republicans say are now at war and will return to industry to ruin America, not less than 15,000,000 will be dead or disabled; in graves or hospitals and poor houses.

Our great far-seeing manufacturers, like Schwab and Gary and Ford and Edison and hundreds of others reaping the fruits of wise legislation, peace and prosperity under Wilson, are enlarging their plants to supply the demands of impoverished and devastated Europe after the war. Europe will have to be restored by us before she can undertake trade competition.

In the worst event, assuming that Europe, devastated in men, wealth and industrial materials, can compete with us, we have a tariff commission created by the Wilson administration to study the situation and recommend scientific tariffs which afford all the protection our industries need. The President is empowered to prevent European dumping. A dumping clause was inserted by Congress in the unfair competition act.

Section 300 to 306 of that act provides: That when articles of foreign manufacture are sought to be imported into this country at a price lower than the cost of manufacture here and come into unfair competition with American industry, such articles are subject to "double duty."

Any person who violates the provisions of this act or conspires with any other person to violate it is punishable by a fine of $5000 and imprisonment for one year.

The act further provides that any person injured in his business by reason of the violation of this act may recover three-fold damages with costs of the suit and attorney fees.

The tariff commission has been demanded for years by Republicans. The Wilson administration has created it and has provided safeguards which will make American industry secure against cheap and nasty competition from abroad. The Republican leaders know that the Democrats have done as much as Republicans could to give legitimate protection to American industry. What the tariff barons want is more—they want graft.

The wretched joke about American workmen being busy while the European workmen are fighting and American workmen being idle when the European soldiers return to work, is of the same piece. The European workmen are killing each other by the millions. They are destroying each other's industries. Millions will never return to work.

It is pertinent to ask who has made it possible for American workmen to keep busy at profitable employment and American capital to make rich returns while the European workmen are killing each other and destroying their industries. Who but President Wilson, whose wise and courageous policies have maintained our neutrality and our lawful rights without war—whose wise domestic legislation has promoted business. These demagogic misrepresentations follow vicious attacks upon Mr. Wilson as a pusillanimous weakling and coward because he refused to conquer Mexico for the Mexican concessionaires and refused to plunge us into the European death pit for the benefit of one or the other belligerent.

Mr. Wilson's courageous, able and humane statesmanship, which has accomplished so much for the American people, for democracy and for mankind, is held up to mockery and scorn.

We do not believe the people can be deceived by these partisan lies. They know what Wilson and his administration have accomplished for their welfare. They are enjoying the fruits.

The real danger lies in the change of policies which may jeopardize every vital American interest.

MILK TRUST NEEDS THE MONEY.

An increase in the price of certain important dairy products is announced by three of the large milk distributing concerns of St. Louis and a probable increase by other distributors.

That this is due to increasing demands on the part of farmers is asserted. The claim should be inquired into. One thing is certain, and that is that it is not due to concessions granted the companies' striking employees.

The public from which the distributors derive their profits was put to enormous inconvenience by the obstinacy of the companies in resisting their employees' requests. That public is much interested in knowing how much of the increase is to be attributed to the large expense incurred by the companies in fighting the strike. Knowledge that, in addition to bearing the principal burden of the strike, it is also required to shoulder all its financial losses, would increase the public's appreciation of its usual role of the goat in these stubborn labor controversies.

Another thing the public is deeply interested in knowing is how far the increase in prices by three or more distributing companies is collusive and within the jurisdiction of Missouri anti-combine laws.

MULTIPLYING EVILS.

Prohibition would do St. Louis more harm than cyclone, flood, fire or earthquake, according to a resolution unanimously adopted by the Real Estate Exchange.

That is not "drawing it mild." But is it going too far? Cyclone, flood, fire or earthquake could do us no mortal injury, at any rate. Prohibition would be a moral blight and a catastrophe to our spirit. Aside from the business aspect of it, we would not care to have every day a Sunday in St. Louis, or "Id" evils multiplied by seven.

The "Id" gave St. Louis the undesired reputation of a town unable to govern itself which had to be Sunday-schooled by the sumptuaries. Prohibition would increase that reputation sevenfold. The "Id" gave birth to a new kind of lawlessness, increased crime and made it more difficult to control. The "Id" spread disrespect for law. The "Id" put self-government further away from St. Louis than it had ever been before. Does any good citizen wish to multiply the embarrassments and fill under which an essentially decent city labors, and at the same time strike at the essential principle of free government, strengthen its real enemies, and weaken the security of, while lowering the status of, citizenship?

At the same time prohibition would destroy nearly one-fourth of St. Louis' business.

Surely we have strange conditions when a native-born candidate for the presidency finds it necessary to promise his hearers that if elected he will be an American.

CAPT. KOENIG INVITED TO ST. LOUIS.

The Westliche Post of St. Louis has extended an invitation to Capt. Koenig of the merchant submarine Deutschland to visit this city before he starts on the return voyage to Germany.

The Post-Dispatch joins in the invitation and in the hope that the gallant Captain may accept. He is one of the heroes of the war and has attained his distinction in serving peaceful purposes chiefly, and military purposes only indirectly. He is an effective writer as well as a navigator. Tales of the sea, from those of Cooper, the inventor of sea tales, down, will be searched in vain for a more thrilling touch than he has shown in his account of the Deutschland's first round-trip voyage, published in the Post-Dispatch. As a work of imagination it would be entitled to high rank and is the more effective because it describes actual experiences.

St. Louis would be glad to welcome Capt. Koenig and his colleagues in his hazardous adventure. He would find it time well spent to make a journey to the interior while his ship is being reloaded and may be assured of a gratifying reception from landmen admirers in this city.

MOTHERS IN PRISON.

The only white woman in the Arkansas Penitentiary has been pardoned, for the sake of the three little children whose mother she was, who needed her services more than society needed to punish her.

A pretty good rule for pardoning powers and parole boards to follow generally, it may be. The maternal instinct, that of protection, is likely to be stronger than criminal impulses in most cases of women who have children—and in such a case what does society gain by imprisoning the mother?

Blaming the President because American banks have loaned money to European belligerents is the height of absurdity. He has no power whatever to interfere with the banking business.

VILLAGE SCHOOLS IN ST. LOUIS.

The visitor to St. Louis is no doubt surprised to find, in various parts of the city, rows of what he may take to be village schools. They are our cheap, little, uncomfortable and inefficient so-called portable schools. They are suggestive of portable garages, and are usually too hot in warm weather and too cold in winter.

On Saturday, Nov. 11, St. Louis voters will be confronted with the question whether they wish thousands of the children of the city to be compelled, for years to come, to get their education in these unsatisfactory buildings, while the rest get all the benefits of the large, well-equipped, comfortable permanent buildings. Any citizen with children of school age may expect to have his children handicapped by being crowded out of the school house into a "portable" with all its disadvantages.

To put a stop to these conditions in the near future, the proposed bond issue is necessary. Without it, nothing can be done. Business men can help to bring the facts home to the people by using the cardboard posters now being distributed by the Business Men's League, with pictures contrasting the kind of school house we now have with the kind we shall have if the bond issue passes. These posters also contain a few striking arguments in favor of the bonds.

It ought not to be necessary, in a metropolis the size of St. Louis, to put up for years with village school buildings.

CABINET MATERIAL.

"You ask what road I propose to take. These are the principles which mark it—an executive responsibility to the whole nation, a Cabinet chosen from our ablest men." So says Mr. Hughes. Those who would be grateful for any whisper in denial of the probability that Col. Roosevelt will be Secretary of State if Mr. Hughes is elected will find nothing in this to lessen their fears.

Mr. Roosevelt is regarded by many Americans as the very abest of all our men. Mr. Hughes has no option but so to regard him.

Written for the POST-DISPATCH by Clark McAdams

MR. ANTWINE ON INDEPENDENTS.

"W E ought to know after next Tuesday just about how many independent voters there really are," Mr. Antwine said. "Squire Thompson was in yesterday from Bee Gum Creek. He has a theory that the independent vote is a myth. He says there may be independent voting in a local election, but in a presidential campaign he believes every man gets down at last to the faith in which he has been raised and votes that ticket. "I don't very much if this is so, though the Squire is about as shrewd an observer as we have hereabouts. He talks politics with every man he meets on the road, and is more interested in finding out what the other fellow is going to do than he is in making it plain what he means to do himself. That is what makes him an observer, rather than one whom it is easier to observe."

"At any rate he says he finds almost no Wilson men who have not been raised Democrats, and almost no Hughes men who have not always been Republicans. If that is what is to become of the independent vote, Mr. Wilson has a very slim chance. Independent voting has been the hope of all those wishing his re-election. I am going to wait and see what happens. If he loses, I will agree with Squire Thompson that there isn't any such thing."

TOO PROUD TO FIGHT.

TOO proud to take what he cannot give,
Too proud to kill that he may live,
Too proud to fight, if a better way
Will bring to his brothers the light of a day
When never a man will raise his hand
Against weaker brother, but staunch will stand
For the honor and right of his native land;
For the right to live, not the right to kill;
To follow his own, not another's will;
To help the oppressed; to use his might
To keep his land from war's black night;
Too proud, too brave, too true to fight—
God help him and keep him safe in his sight
Till he's taught the world by right, not might,
That the bravest and truest and noblest of men
Have watched and have waited again and again
To be ready to see and to know the time when They can win, without fighting, their own fellow men.

ORTHODOXUS AND THE MUSE

On Vers Libre.

ORTHODOXUS. Oh, Muse, prepare thyself for tidings fair:
This day I publicly acclaim thee mine—
Before all men and women set the seal
Of my approval on thy worthy brow.
Henceforth together fare we on our way,
And in the proper paths thy steps I guide,
That, seeing thee, men know 'tis thou,
Indeed,
And not some counterfeit decked in thy garb.
In gratitude, keep thou with me the faith,
For those who would seduce thee are abroad.
Let them not animate thy stately pace,
Nor yet entice thee from thy ancient road.

MUSE. Ye know me not.

No man's am I, or any set of men's;
No beaten path is mine;
But Unto
And all the airy regions 'round about Support my flight.
The bride am I of lofty thought
And generous aim
Where'er 'tis found.

ORTHODOXUS. Ye gods, what heresy is this!

Oh, shades of Alexander Pope!
What would immortal Homer say?
Great Aeschylus would turn in his grave
On hearing this rebellious creed!

MUSE. Poor Soul!

You'd make of me a kitchen maid,
With rules and hours
For coming in and going out!
The pretty scope which you allow
I spurn.
Your very presence stifles me—
To that large air I wing
Where rule and line chide not;
Where noble mind
Surveys its kind
With love,
Thy view, in truth, is scant;
And Truth and Beauty reign.

I. C.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson died Aug. 8, 1914. Mrs. Norman Galt was married to the President Dec. 13, 1914. The law is defective and not such good may result.

WORRIED.—Try reporting howling and barking dogs to Chief of Police. The dog, descended from the wolf, is naturally a howler. Like some people, he likes to hear his own voice.

A. B. C.—Absence a year is ground for divorce. Alimony would be a matter for court to determine. If divorce petition is very poor and case is uncertain some generous lawyer may undertake it without fees, and court might (we don't say it would) relieve of court costs. Costs in default divorce cases, $5; in contested cases, $20.

E. E. M.—It is the duty of the Prosecuting Attorney to prosecute husbands who do not support their wives. Take a clear, truthful statement of the whole matter to the Bar Association Judge Taylor, Room 200, Bank Building, Missouri is in need of a better law for the protection of wives and children. Under the present law a husband may starve his family.

J.—The sugar industry in this country at present is prosperous, and there is no demoralization due to the import being taken off. Plantations generally are on a profitable basis. The high cost of sugar is attributable to the concentration of supplies in the hands of leading interests in the industry and the continued advance in price of all food products has permitted a sentimental advance in sugar prices. There is no scarcity of sugar at present.

W. C. HIGHT.—The cost of the Queen Elizabeth, the greatest battleship ever built in Europe, was $17,000,000. She is of 17,000 tons displacement, and carries the big 15-inch guns, having eight of these in her armament, which shoot huge projectiles a distance of more than 15 miles. The cruiser Hudson had a complement of 101 men. Her armament consisted of 19 11-inch guns, 8-pounders and 4 machine guns. She was equipped with 2 submerged 17.7 torpedo tubes. She was launched in 1901, displaced 280 tons, was 27 feet long and had a beam of 41.3 feet.

L. F. E.—Eurekas (bed-wetting) is caused by bladder disorder. Turpentine in some cases, not in others. Rubber diaper is recommended. It is well to awaken every night at 11 o'clock in that it creates a habit. Drink nothing after 4 p. m. Heedful of the bladder has good results in some cases. Baths and exercise for weakly children. Sleep on side, even if necessary to tie around the waist a band with a knot in the back. Large tonsils or adenoid growths and also worms are said to be the cause sometimes.

ROY.—The pioneer moving picture show of this city was on Franklin avenue, with two on Market a few days later; year, 1904. Barkers stranded here after the World's Fair took on their well-known name. He and his partner, going all the time! Never out and never over! Something doing on the inside all the time! For a time, a time of a time and you get it for half a dime! The crowd on the busy street seemed to see what was going on in the street. A few of the crowd stole to look at a dog fight or a drunken man. In 1907 Jacob Scherer, at a cost of $100,000, built the largest tent at Broadway and Bremen avenue at a "nickelodeon," as the popular name was given to it. It was the largest in dimensions and had seats for 10,000 persons.

Corset Cover Edging.
WHEN trimming the neck and armholes of a corset cover use lace and then, instead of stitching a beading to run the ribbon through, try crocheting just a chain from point to point on the lace, using 6 or 10 crochet cuts; the result is most satisfactory, as the ribbon will run through easily and the chain-stitch will outwear any beading.

THE HEATHER LINTIE, by S. R. Crockett.

JANET BALCHRYSTIE lived with her drunken father—a railway track mender—in a tiny white-washed cottage among the boulders of a Galloway moor. Her father got rather more drunken than usual one night and mistook the railroad track for his bed, going to sleep across the ties a few moments before the Edinburgh express whizzed northward.

The company buried what was left of him, and Janet lived alone in the tiny cottage. She had had no girlhood; no education, except what she could pick up; no friends. She was lonely, and her lonely life made her old before her time.

In all her barren and dreary existence, at the moorland cottage, there was but one gloriously bright spot—a secret, that she guarded with thrills of delight. This secret was the fact that she was a poet.

Every week Janet laboriously wrote a poem. Her verses were the sort that one might have expected from an uneducated and empty lived woman. Yet they breathed a fervor and a love of nature. And Janet herself felt they were inspired from heaven.

So the years dragged on. And yearly the stack of poems grew larger. At last a brilliant idea came to the pathetic old woman—she would collect 40 or 50 of her best poems and publish them in book form. So for years longer she hoarded such few pennies as she could—by starving herself and wearing her old clothes—until at last she had saved enough money to publish the little volume at her own expense.

A Secret Revealed.
She called the book "The Heather Lintie," and had it printed on gray paper and bound in vivid blue. She had planned to publish it anonymously. But she feared that might not be quite honest. Also, she felt she had no right to arouse in the world of letters another such fierce discussion as had once been waged about the authorship of the Waverley novels. This book of hers was going to win immortal fame. Therefore, it must be signed. So on the flyleaf her name and address were printed.

Then she sat back to wait for the plaudits of her fellowmen. But now that the strain was over, Janet fell ill. Underfeeding and over-worrying had at last claimed their toll on the prematurely aged woman. So ill was she that nothing but her yearning to read the reviews of her book kept her alive.

Meantime the poems were sent to the various Scotch newspapers for criticism. The youthful reviewer of a great Edinburgh paper seized on the book with joy, and wrote two columns of alleged humor about it, making fun of every line, geying the author's ignorance, etc. It was one of the criticisms that are screamingly funny to the average reader, but are a cruelly maddening torture to their victim. The review began modestly:

"This is a book which may be a genuine source of pride to every native of the ancient province of Galloway." And it went on to hold the whole thing to boundless ridicule.

A copy of the paper, with this first review of her darling poems, was left at Janet's cottage door at twilight one June evening. The dying woman crawled out of bed and crept eagerly to the door to receive it. Her trembling old hands tore off the wrapping. She was too poor to afford a candle, so she tried to read the review by the despatching twilight.

The Reward of a Life.
"Two columns of it!" she murmured, in joyous wonder, and went on to spell out the first few words: "A genuine source of pride."

She could read no more by the dim light. But she had seen enough to feel sure she had scored a great success. The rest of it could wait until morning.

"The Lord be praised!" she whispered rapturously. "I tried to write these poems to the glory of God. He will accept them and keep me humble under the praise of men!"

Clasping the precious newspaper to her heart, she fell asleep. They found her thus, in the morning—dead; but with a light of glorious happiness on her thin face. The paper was so tightly clutched to her breast that they buried it with her.

Famous Songs

"Ben Bolt."

OF all American songs none is so hauntingly sweet as that beginning: "Don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt?" Sweet Alice, whose hair was so brown, Who wept with delight when you gave her a smile, And trembled with fear at your frown!

Dr. Thomas Dunn English, its author, contributed his poem to the New York Mirror in 1843. It was a work of love, written without compensation, to oblige the editor, N. P. Willis, who had recently undertaken to put the paper on its feet.

The poem had a pathetic ill that attracted no little attention, but its fame did not come until later years. In 1899 Nelson Kneass, an actor, adapted the poem to an old German melody and the air captivated the American people. Then the song crossed the water, and achieved an equally great success in England, and literally ran round the world.

It remained for George du Maurier to immortalize "Ben Bolt" in "Trilby," where the gentle victim of Svengali sings the air so sweetly to Taffy the Laird and Little Billee.

CARE OF THE MOTOR VEIL

VEILS pick up the dust and grime, daintily as they are. To keep them dainty they must have care. The first rudiments of the care are: Never roll your veil and do not rumple it. If you have a large piece of cardboard on which to spread your veil out flat, well and best. If you must fold it, first spread it out flat and then fold carefully, making as few folds as possible.

Your veil box should be as important as your glove box. A woman should have as many veils as gloves, in the first place. For veils, to remain dainty and fresh, must have rest and care; they are delicate, you know, having little strength in the mere strands of fine silk of which they are made.

The wind fills your veil full of dust. The veil keeps most of this dust from touching you. The veil should be shaken gently and brushed, unless there are fragile dots or figures which might be harmed. Most veils, except those embroidered or velvet dotted, can be washed. This is a great advantage, because everyone knows how disagreeable it is to wear a dusty veil, and all veils become soiled by the atmosphere as well as by handling.

To wash a veil, use lukewarm water and castle soap—ivory soap is good—and move the veil about in it. The veil cannot bear rubbing; soapy water is enough anyway. Rinse in several bowls of lukewarm water and press the veil gently between the hands. Do not wring it out flat. If you hang it up, be sure to fasten the upper edge at several points or it will pull out of place.

Hints

WHEN short of layer tins, try baking your cake in your tin spider; you will have a round cake just the same.

To press pants, put the wet cloth on first, then newspaper over the cloth and your iron will not stick. When you make boiled starch keep what is left in a cool place and you will have starch for the next wash day.

Mothers should give a whole Cascaret to cross-billious, feverish children any time. They are harmless and never gripe or sicken.—ADV.

ANOTHER VERSION OF LUSITANIA NOTE POSTSCRIPT STORY

New York Sun Gives Alleged Facts of How President at First Yielded to Bryan.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The New York Sun today prints the following: "From a source which it considers trustworthy, the Sun has come into possession of certain facts regarding the softening addendum to the Lusitania note, first brought to light in a speech made last week by Senator Lodge. These facts are said to agree with the version which former Secretary of War Garrison has given to some of his close friends. Arranged in sequence they appear to show:

"That the general tenor of the so-called 'strict accountability' note was first discussed at a Cabinet meeting and, over the objections of Mr. Bryan, was approved and ordered sent.

"That, after it had been signed and while it was at the State Department awaiting transmission, Mr. Bryan asked for and obtained a private interview with the President.

"That at this interview Mr. Bryan pleaded with his chief to change the note by the addition of a paragraph that would mollify Germany and keep it within the spirit of the arbitration treaties which he had been negotiating and which Germany had shown a disposition to accept.

"That the President at this secret meeting with the Secretary of State and after much argument yielded to Bryan's persuasions.

"That the note, which was about to be transmitted, was recalled from the State Department and taken to the White House, and that the President then in his own handwriting and with the approval of Mr. Bryan added a paragraph which stated that the Imperial German Government was not to construe the note as a threat of war, and that liability for the American lives lost on the Lusitania would be determined after the close of hostilities in Europe.

"That, having won his victory over the President, Mr. Bryan called up Secretary Tumulty and told him what he had done, and that Mr. Tumulty, greatly agitated, appealed to Mr. Lansing.

"That Mr. Lansing, without authority from his chief, Mr. Bryan, had the note held up for three hours in the cable bureau of the State Department to allow time for Mr. Tumulty to reach other members of the Cabinet.

"That Mr. Tumulty first appealed to Mr. Garrison, who rushed to the President and tried without avail to get him to rescind the addendum.

"That, finding he could not move Mr. Wilson, Mr. Garrison then communicated with Postmaster-General Burleson.

"That Mr. Burleson then joined with Mr. Garrison in insisting to the President that the addendum, in view of the general temper of the country, would mean political ruin for the President and the Democratic party.

"That Mr. Wilson finally yielded to the views of these two Cabinet members and, recalling the note a second time, ordered the addendum canceled, the note being then dispatched in the form in which it was made public.

Resignation of Bryan.

"Mr. Bryan, it will be recalled, refused to sign the second Lusitania note and his resignation followed.

"Only five persons in Washington at that time are said to be in possession of the facts first hand regarding this incident. These five were Messrs. Garrison, Burleson, Bryan, Tumulty and Lansing. Assistant Secretary of War Brockbridge was taken into the secret, and through him some of the information percolated to friends and intimates recently."

Peeling the Skin Is Better Than Bleaching

Ever since the discovery that mercurized wax would absorb and remove a discolored complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for bleaching creams has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its basic action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying high prices for "special bleaches" from beauty specialists soon recognize that mercurized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all druggists, who have it in original one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using it is to apply it like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

The maxillole lotion for wrinkles and the facial contour has also become extremely popular. One ounce powdered maxillole is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Batching the face in this has a splendid effect in erasing wrinkles and improving contour.—ADV.

Where Labor Stands Today on President Wilson and "On the 100% Candidate"

Six Years Is a Long Time, Mr. Hughes!

In "eleventh-hour" desperation the Republicans have gone way back to 1910 for an endorsement by a representative of labor for their candidate.

In full pages of paid-for advertisements, printed throughout the country, they quote an editorial by John M. O'Hanlon, in the "Legislative Labor News."

Why Don't They Quote the Same Paper and the Same Editor Today?

Mr. Hughes thinks so highly of Mr. O'Hanlon's opinion that he has been everywhere pulling from his pocket and reading to audiences of wage earners that six-year-old editorial.

Apparently the Republican managers don't read the newspapers. If they did, they would not have quoted Mr. O'Hanlon in full-page advertisements which appeared two days after Mr. O'Hanlon issued a vigorous statement announcing that he has supported President Wilson ever since he was renominated.

Queer, isn't it, that Mr. Hughes has to go back six years to find an endorsement from any LEGITIMATE representative of labor? Let's see—

In the absence of any other bona-fide labor endorsement, your six-year-old one may be valued by you, Mr. Hughes, but come back to the present and listen to Mr. O'Hanlon's statement issued at Troy, N. Y., October 29, 1916. He said:

"I have been supporting President Wilson for re-election both in the columns of my paper and wherever I have had the opportunity to express my conviction orally, ever since he has accepted a renomination.

"The quoted article in the issue of The Legislative Labor News of October, 1910, giving credit to Governor Hughes for his approval of labor laws while Governor of this State is based on fact. A similar appreciation could have been issued for the work of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey. Since that period both have occupied national spheres of action.

"Mr. Wilson as President has fulfilled every expectation aroused by his career as Governor. Mr. Hughes has not."

"As a candidate for President, Mr. Hughes has declared his opposition to the Wilson program of legislation and seized upon the eight-hour law for railroad men to emphasize that opposition. In discussing it he has attacked the sincerity and intelligence of organized labor and charged it with greed by declaring that it intimidated Congress into enacting a 'wage law' designed to create extra wages for more than eight hours of work a day. The chief object of the railroad men and all other workers is to prevent more than eight hours' work a day by exacting higher prices for extra hours.

"The entire labor movement of the State of New York, almost without exception, is in favor of the re-election of President Wilson. The record of his achievement in Congress is such that no wage-earner, whether a member of organized labor or not, should fail to support him for re-election."

This Is 1916, Mr. Hughes, Not 1910!

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT 2 BIG RALLIES IN NEW YORK CITY

Great Crowds Greet Him at Madison Square Garden and Cooper Union.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—With two great rallies here last night, President Wilson closed his campaign for re-election, except for a speech he will deliver to New Jersey friends and neighbors at Shadow Lawn, Saturday afternoon. From the time he arrived in the city yesterday he was greeted by cheering crowds wherever he appeared.

In four speeches, three at night and one at a business men's luncheon in the early afternoon, he reiterated his conception of the great issues which confront the United States. He appealed for principles of progress which would help the "obscure" men and women of the land, the "humble" of the "street" interests which he said seek to dominate, and pleaded for equal rights for all men.

The President's coming gave the Democrats their first opportunity of the campaign in this city for old-fashioned political enthusiasm, on the big "rally" torchlight and red fire blazed in Fifth avenue as the hosts of Tammany Hall, headed by Charles F. Murphy, advanced upon Madison Square Garden, which was besieged by a tremendous crowd before their arrival.

Police Unable to Handle Crowd. Two hours and a half before Mr. Wilson was due to arrive at the historic garden police reserves were striving vainly to hold back a surging throng waiting for the doors to open. Holders of reserve seat tickets strove vainly to reach the entrances. The seating capacity of the garden has been increased to 18,000, but it seemed after the doors were closed and the last inch of room occupied, that the size of the throng outside had not been perceptibly diminished. In the crush about the doors many women fainted.

Similar scenes were enacted at Cooper Union. At this meeting special provision had been made for young men not of voting age, who had marched in the parade with delegations from Tammany and other Democratic organizations.

Augustus Thomas presided at the Madison Square Garden meeting. The first speaker was Samuel Seabury, candidate for Governor of New York. He was followed by William F. McCombs, candidate for United States Senator and former Gov. Martin H. Glynn. All of them commended the policies of Mr. Wilson, which they declared had "brought peace and prosperity."

The Mexican members of the Mexican-American joint commission, accompanied by their wives, occupied seats on the platform.

When Mr. Wilson was recognized as he appeared on the platform, the crowd rose and cheered steadily for 30 minutes. Small buttons, flags, fluttered from thousands of waving hands. In the intervals, when the din slackened, patriotic airs were sung.

Madison Square Garden Address. "It would be impossible to say anything worthy of the welcome you have given me," said the President in beginning his Madison Square Garden speech. "I realize that we stand at one of the most serious turning points in the history of the United States and of the world."

"This campaign has disclosed some line of division in the United States. Here and there it has shown men aligned against each other. This will be ominous for the future unless it is checked."

A hand outside, playing "The Red, White and Blue," interrupted the President. "I can't compete with the red, white and blue," he said, pausing.

Someone in the crowd shouted: "We trust you, Mr. President," and the cheering started again.

The President said the campaign in 1912 represented a fight against privilege and that the same was true now. "I want you to realize," he continued, "that another sort of division has appeared in this country. It is between those who employ labor and those who perform labor. Nothing could be more dangerous. We must see that justice is done to working people. This is not a matter of mere sentiment, but a matter of human right."

"There is also another division. Some men have grown so suspicious that they have sought to discredit their own Government in order to gain a partisan advantage. Some men have sought to determine the affairs of this nation in accordance with interests outside this nation. What are we going to do with them?"

"Elect you," a man cried.

Part of the People. "I will tell you what we have done," he went on. "We have built up a party of the people."

The President predicted victory, saying he was not worried over the outcome. "I do not want to be elected unless I am one of you and you believe in me," he added amid applause.

He spoke of the eight-hour day, saying it shows that the men in this country who look at life from the workman's point of view. "I have done a mere act of justice," he said.

"I want to say," declared the President, "that I believe the forces of this nation are gathered for a demonstration of power on the part of public opinion on the 7th of November such as has never been displayed in the world before. This great tide of opinion is rising, not for the purpose of destroying anything, but for flooding all those happy squares in which men may travel who know they are bound for the finest goals of human ambition."

"This tide of humanity swelling in America is sweet with the purposes of peace; it is wholesome with the judgments of justice, and when it has come to the flood men will see that it is a great body meant to drive all the industries of the world by the pulse or heart beat of men who love the world and believe in their fellow men."

"When America has found herself, then she will be able to play the part which it was destined she would play. Let all men who believe the same thing keep together; let no kind of intimidation, let no kind of vague and fruitless promise, divert us for a moment."

Mission of the Nation. "Let us first see that we are a united and irresistible nation, and then let us put all that force at the service of humanity in order that men may say that they know what human rights are and that they live and understand nothing but what is humanly right. That is the simple message that I have come to deliver to you."

"We have set up government in response to the opinion of the people. We have marshaled the men who think together, the men who feel together, the men who purpose together, in such hosts that I predict they will prove invincible. I am not fearful lest any of these lines of cleavage should run so deep as to touch the heart of this people; I know, what this rising tide means. It does not mean confidence in any particular man; it means confidence in the destinies of America and the confidence of the American people that they again govern their own affairs."

"So that when we look upon our politics at the present time we should concentrate all our purposes upon keeping the men together. No believe that everybody is entitled to an equal chance, who believe that liberty is a reality and not a name, who believe that justice must be achieved and can only be achieved by holding together shoulder to shoulder, one body of conquering men."

Today in this city made him feel like dedicating his life all over again to the cause of the great mass of toilers of the country.

Many thousands of persons who were unable to gain entrance to Madison Square Garden followed the President and his party to Cooper Union, and the crowds there became so dense that the police were forced to use their clubs freely in clearing a way for Mr. Wilson to enter.

Thomas W. Churchill, former president of the Board of Education of New York, introducing the President to the young men inside Cooper Union, said that Lincoln, whom he referred to as "the tenderest memory of our great war," once had stood upon the same platform Mr. Wilson was to speak from.

"He's another Lincoln," shouted a chorus of voices.

"I've been dealing with young men most of my life," began the President. "One thing I've tried to impress upon them has been not to stay young too long, but to take themselves seriously."

"A free nation," said the President,

"cannot have the spirit of employees; it's got to be the spirit of comrades and equals or it will not go forward."

Referring to the "few" in control of the resources of the country, the President declared "we must show them that the representatives of the people can run the Government better than the representatives of the interests."

"I congratulate you youngsters," said the President. "I wish I were young again, for I love the fight when the purposes are what they are now."

The President paused a moment, then continued:

"We may win the fight Nov. 7—we will win—but it will have to be another November two years from now and another, and so from November to November we'll have to keep our shoulders to the wheel."

He urged upon the young men coming of voting age to "get ready," adding that then "we'll have an American" such as the great mass of the people of the country desire, and one for which "our children and our children's children will bless us."

The President was driven directly from Cooper Union to the presidential yacht Mayflower, aboard which he and his party left for Long Branch, N. J.

The President addressed a gathering of business men from all parts of the country at a luncheon. He declared in his talk that "the men who constitute what we have agreed to call 'Wall Street' have a subtle genius for proposing seemingly 'immaterial' changes," when called into consultation concerning the affairs of the country, "which would eventually lead to the defeat of the main objects of the legislation proposed."

"Do you wonder," said the President, "that I do not call them into consultation? And yet, I tell you again, that they will be welcome the moment they come to co-operate, and they will not be welcome until then."

The President assured his audience that the business interest of the country had been safeguarded under his administration and would continue to be if he should be re-elected.

The appearance of Mrs. Wilson and the other ladies of the presidential party at the luncheon, like that of the President, was the occasion of much applause. As Mr. Wilson took his seat one of the diners shouted: "Three cheers for Wilson, the Progressive!" Instantly the crowd was in an uproar, hurrying napkins into the air and cheering again.

In his speech the President said in part:

"We are living in a very serious period of the world's history, and therefore it seems to me especially incumbent upon us that we should, so far as possible, search every question to the heart. And when I think of searching the business question to the heart, it seems to me that there are some very large reckonings which have too often been left out of the account. When you think of the ultimate foundations of business, you must know that you find them in the conditions of the national life, and that the particular conditions upon which successful, vital business depends are the conditions which touch the daily life of the common mass of people of the country."

"Business is not a matter of organizing genius; business is not merely a matter of financial initiative; business does not altogether consist of seeing the opportunity and trying to avail yourself of it; it consists in having deep sources of strength to draw from; and the only sources of strength for business, as for government, are to be found in the general body of the people."

"Are they content? A people not contented does not work well."

"Are they living under the proper physical conditions? A people stunted in their growth or arrested in this vitality or hampered in their physical growth does not work well."

"Are they confident that they are living under conditions under which they will get justice and the right consideration of those who are put over them? If they suspect that they are being put upon, used for the benefit of others, they will grudge every stroke of work they do, and do it only because they must have bread for the mouths of those dependent upon them when they love."

Where Roots of Business Lie.

"The roots of business, my fellow citizens, lie deep in the hearts and thoughts and daily lives of the people who crowd about us every day on the streets and on the countryside."

"And the thing that has disturbed the thought of a great many men in recent years in this country is that the general body of the people have got the impression that they are being exploited, that they are being used, that their vitality is being drawn upon in order that others might prosper and they get the crumbs from the table."

"What I am constantly reminding myself of is that opinion is just as much a fact as any law of physical nature. If it has been wrongly created it can be altered, but until it is altered it is something to deal with."

"There did not use to be any under-world in America. Men were not accustomed to think in America that there slumbered anywhere a volcano in American affairs, but now men who go a little beneath the surface are constantly saying to you things are going on in this country, based upon a profound dissatisfaction, which will have to be dealt with in strenuous fashion unless the feeling upon which it rests is relieved and altered."

"I am not one of those who would be considered a prophet of danger in this matter, because I believe that this is the only country in the world where this sort of thing can and will be relieved by the common sense of justice and the consent of action to see that the conditions that are wrong shall be made right."

The President declared that it was "time that we define what we mean when we say 'progressive policy.' Men have discovered, said the President, that these things underlie politics—these feelings, these conditions of daily life with which obscure men are struggling, these burdens that obscure women are carrying."

He deplored the "intolerable burden" little children are facing.

"Society is constantly needing to be touched up, to have the decayed wood taken out and good wood put in, to have the structure looked to, and the structure lies in the human heart. It lies in the contentment of peoples and the satisfaction of whole nations with the conditions under which they are living," said the President. "But my moral is that business cannot afford to let anything alone. When I hear business men say 'Let things alone,' I understand that

WHO?

—who is going to represent YOU in the United States Senate for the next six years?

This is important to you.

In the candidacy of WALTER S. DICKEY

you have, at this election, an unusual opportunity to send the right man to represent you in the Senate. Not a professional politician but a business man, a man who has built and is conducting a big successful business enterprise.

YOU're going to vote for somebody for United States Senator.

Who are you really for, when it comes right down to it? It's yourself, isn't it? ISN'T IT YOU?

Is partisanship or oratory going to influence you, when you have the secret ballot?

Vote for yourself and home!

And you DO vote for yourself when you vote for

WALTER S. DICKEY.

This man is for the things that you are for—the things that count—

Honest elections—good government—good wages—good times—a government at Washington respected at home and abroad—the improvement of the rivers—larger railroad facilities—hard surface wagon roads, honestly built of honest materials—conservation of natural resources—the expansion of export trade to all the world—industrial preparedness—the right of every individual to reap the advantages of his labor.

In addition to standing for these things which you stand for,

YOU need this man to REPRESENT you in the United States Senate.

WALTER S. DICKEY

will take to the Senate a business capacity to accomplish them. He has gained this ability through thirty-two years of successful building and operation of his own manufacturing business. International in scope, his business training has made him a student and master of transportation problems, the tariff and other economics and social questions.

Always fair and honest with his men,

WALTER S. DICKEY

firmly believes and practices the principle of giving everyone the chance to advance from the humblest to the highest position.

IN HIS FACTORIES

the superintendents, master mechanics, engineers, foremen, machinists, kiln burners, etc., are men that started as water boys and laborers.

IN HIS OFFICE

many of his heads of departments began as office boys and stenographers. Hundreds of his men have been on his payroll from ten to thirty years.

THE SUPERINTENDENT of the factory at Kansas City was born after his father began working there thirty years ago. Three generations of the same family have worked for him at one time all holding responsible positions.

WALTER S. DICKEY

has lived thirty-two years in Missouri—Kansas City. In all matters pertaining to public welfare and prosperity he has always been found doing a man's part. He was chosen by his fellow townsmen to work out the gigantic problem of establishing a line of freight boats on the Missouri River—a project of great importance to the entire state.

This advertisement was prepared and paid for by the friends of Walter S. Dickey, who want to see him elected to the United States Senate.

are men in and about Wall street who have a great deal of vision and wisdom and public spirit, and who don't intend to do anything but public service in the things they are undertaking. It is not a fair term, but we have adopted it—and we will have to use it. Because there are other men in Wall street who have no vision, who have no thought except of their own interest, who have no care for any part of government except to control it, who are not interested unless they are consulted, who do not believe that there is anybody outside of their circle who knows enough to conduct anything that exceeds the limits of a single parish.

Danger of Concentrated Power.
"You know why the world long ago saw, though not all parts of it have acted upon the perception, that a government that is concentrated in the hands of too small a group of men is a bad government—not because the men are always bad, but because they go bad sooner or later; and because, more important than that, they don't know enough—they are not in touch with enough parts of the great and various things which they are trying to decide. "I have been told again and again that it was a mistake for me not to call into counsel, in public affairs, the men who constitute what we have agreed to call 'Wall street.' And I have again and again said this: If they would come in a spirit of co-operation, they would be more than welcome. But they always came in a spirit, not only of resistance, but advising alterations in the plans which would defeat the plans.

Wasteful Resistance to Change.
"Why, the amount of genius that is expended in this country in resisting hopeful changes is one of the greatest indictments on the score of waste that this country has laid itself open to. Brains have been burned out acting as brakes. I solemnly protest that that is not the right use for the best gifts of the country.

"I have been telling men I was associated with, I have been telling men when it was my business and when it was not my business, that they did not understand their business until they got into the game; and therefore, it seems to me that we have always, not to put our ears to the ground, but our thought upon those intimate things that bind us all together as a human family."

The President, in conclusion, said he believed in political parties as the "only instrumentality by which we can manage the necessary concert of united action, but I do not believe in parties used for partisan purposes."

"I hope that every time a party is used for its own sake, every thoughtful man in the United States will vote against it," he declared. "But if it is trying to serve the interests of the whole people, if it really has a heart that sympathizes with the whole people, why then, it deserves the confidence of the nation, so long as it is doing that, so long as it is not seeking guidance from those who wish to control, but acting in sympathy with those who wish to live."

Large Crowds Greet President.
From the time of his arrival here from Buffalo, N. Y., this morning, the President was given an almost continuous ovation. Large crowds, including many railroad employes, cheered him as he stepped from his private train at the Grand Central terminal. Accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and the other members of his party, the President was driven to the presidential yacht Mayflower, moored off the New York Yacht Club at East Twenty-third street. He remained there until 12:30, when he left for the luncheon given in his honor by the Wilson Business Men's League. Crowds again lined the streets and cheered the President and Mrs. Wilson. After the luncheon the President visited Democratic headquarters.

Among the guests at the luncheon to greet the President were James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to Germany; Gov. Fielder of New Jersey; John M. Riehl, president of the National Democratic Club; Jacob H. Schiff, Secretary McAdoo, United States Senators Hughes of New Jersey and James of Kentucky, Chairman Vance C. McCormick of the Democratic National Committee and Col. Edward M. House.

JUDGE DISQUALIFIES HIMSELF

Will Have Another Sit in Case of J. F. Murphy at Edwardsville.

After refusing to go to trial in the Circuit Court at Edwardsville today, James F. Murphy of Alton, once a Socialist candidate for State's Attorney, succeeded in getting Judge Gilham to consent to have another Circuit Judge sit in the case. Murphy, who is charged in an indictment with a crime against a child, asked for a change of venue, alleging Judge Gilham was prejudiced against him and that Gilham was also needed by him as a witness to prove a political conspiracy against him.

The prosecuting witness against Murphy is Myrtle Kates, 15 years old, of Alton. The case likely will be called some time next week. Murphy was returned to jail.

Negroes Routed by Fire.
Fire at the Roosevelt Hotel, 577 and 579 Morgan street, sent 25 negro tenants into the street at 4 o'clock this morning. Haywood Blackwell, 49 years old, in whose room on the first floor the fire started, was burned on the right leg. The damage was estimated at $700.

To Consider Advertising Ballot.
At a special meeting tonight at the Washington Hotel the St. Louis Bar Association will decide whether it will advertise in the newspapers the result of its recent ballot endorsing candidates for judgeship.

What He Stands For

"YOU ask what road I propose to travel?

These are the milestones which mark it.

"An Executive responsible to the whole nation.

"A Cabinet chosen from the ablest Americans.

"A foreign policy that stands courteously but firmly for American rights.

"A flag that protects the American in his lawful rights wherever his legitimate business may take him.

"A preparation for trade competition which shall protect all groups of American workmen.

"A government oversight of business which will fearlessly eliminate abuses, but will act on the assumption that the average business man is honest.

"And finally a domestic policy which looks to industrial peace, and to sound and permanent prosperity based upon the development of American trade and the building up of American industries.

"We Americans are in one boat. You cannot strike a blow at one group without injury to all. Common justice and fair play will settle our difficulties if suspicion and bitterness are let alone. These are the principles by which I propose to be guided."

THE POST-DISPATCH
DAILY SHORT STORY

The Coward

JOHNSON stopped at the edge of the clearing and looked carefully at the hut. A few yards back, where the spring crossed the trail, there were tracks of a woman's shoe. It was country where one didn't live long without the habit of nothing things. The tracks were light, mostly toes, and far apart for so small a foot. Johnson knew no woman traveled north so fast, into the wilderness, and without a pack, at that, for diversion, so he had sidestepped from the trail, silently slipped off his tunic, and circled to the edge of the clearing, about a dozen yards from where the trail struck it. There in the shadow of the pines he searched the clearing with his eyes. No sign of life.

The door of the hut was shut, but a couple of boards had been knocked off one of the window openings. The tall grass was trampled toward the spring. Over to the right was a wreck of a birch, where someone had been cutting firewood. Nothing especially alarming, but Johnson was not popular and a few early experiences had made him cautious. He stood there, silent, for perhaps 15 minutes before he started for the door. There was still no sound, and he stepped inside, gun in hand.

A rusty little yacht stove, a few shelves and a rude table were all the cookroom contained. Beyond was the bunkroom with a large double-decked bunk against one wall, and opposite it the window. Johnson went on in. In the lower bunk lay the body of a man with a hunting knife sticking in his breast. He lay staring at the ceiling with a rather silly smile, as though he had been grinning and death had come too quickly for it to fade.

"MacNamara—My God!" Johnson was unnerved. It was not often that men die by the knife in the north country. Then a great load seemed to leave his shoulders, for this dead man had sworn, not three weeks before, to shoot him at sight—and Johnson was known to be a coward. No more need he sleep with an eye open or slip into towns at night. MacNamara, thank God, was dead!

The dead man's pack was in the other bunk, and scattered around the room were hairpins, a small rhinestone ring and a few other feminine trinkets. "Woman!" said Johnson—and then he saw the note. It was scrawled on the cover torn from an old magazine. It read:

"Ed, you'll find this sure. Mac was going to lay for you and put you at the White Rocks. I couldn't find you, so I promised to come here to Carmels with him. When he climbed in the bunk I gave it to him—the fool!" It was unsigned.

The sun was very near the western hilltop. Johnson went to the woods and returned with his pack; he dropped it near the stove in the cookroom. Then he burned the note. Next he took a small bag of parched corn out of his pack and concealed it in the woman's little things, and put the bag in his shirt. There remained only one thing to do. Without looking at the dead man's face he drew the knife out of his breast and forced his own into the wound. The woman's knife he took to the door and hurried far out into the woods.

There wasn't much daylight left. He closed the door quietly and started for the trail north.

"I'll have to hurry," said Johnson.

Now Qualified.

AREN'T you the boy who was here a week ago looking for a position?" "Yes, sir."

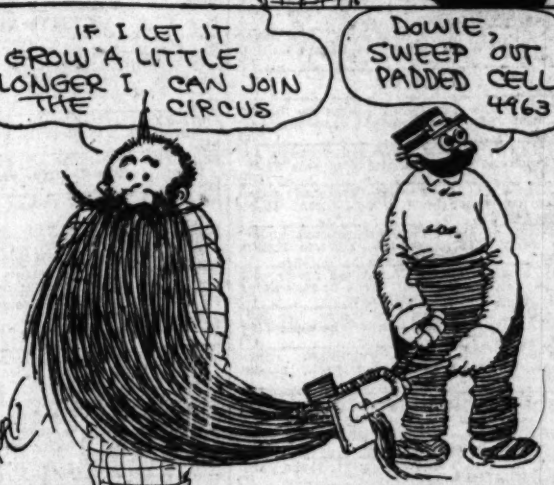

"I thought so. And didn't I tell you that I wanted an older boy?"

"Yes, sir; that's why I'm here now."

Her Old Habit.

MEDIUM: Ah, I hear the knocking of your late wife!

Patron: That so? Who's she knocking now?

The Rose and the Clover.

It was the evening before the feast for the Queen's birthday, and every fairy was greatly excited. Queen Iris would be 6000 years old, but that meant a young lady in Fairyland, where some of the real old people lived for 50,000 years.

But 5000 was enough to cause a big celebration, and both the fairies and the flowers joined in planning a great time for their loved Queen. Late in the afternoon just about sunset the Queen took a stroll in her beautiful garden, and while wandering underneath the lilacs she thought she caught a faint sound as if of busy tongues. So she flitted gently into the bush to hear. Sure enough there was a big crowd of fairies talking eagerly to the flowers which crowded the beds. So Iris hid in the leaves and listened.

"We have everything arranged except one," said a tiny fellow dressed in green with golden trimmed cap and wand, dancing sword. "And that is a carpet on which the Queen can walk. The ring we have used in the woods for a few thousand years is worn out. Will any of you flowers allow your petals to carpet the spot?"

The lily nodded its stately head scornfully, the pansies opened their big eyes but said nothing, and the peonies shook their huge, red blossoms laughingly. Even the violets hid beneath their leaves at the idea. The crimson tulip shook the dew from her cup in her laughter. Then a tall pink rose whose bloom had hundreds of beautiful petals spoke up.

"You can hardly expect one of us flowers to act as a carpet for anyone," she cried, angrily toasting about on her slender stem. "Why not get someone more humble? We are the gems of the plant world and should not be trodden under foot, even by the Fairy Queen."

Now, right under the bush in which Iris was hidden was the soft turf made by the tender, green clover which grew all over the garden. The little plant had no bloom, just tiny stems with three leaves. But it heard what was going on.

Its heart beat with excitement, for it made up its mind to speak. And it was a pretty brave thing for the clover to say anything right in the fairy meeting, where all the great flowers were making speeches. But it took courage and said in a low voice, "I would like to say something."

"Oh, no," laughed the pink rose, bending down so she could gaze contemptuously at the clover. "So you want to have a word in this matter, you insignificant little thing?"

"I wish to offer myself as a carpet for the Queen's feet at the fairy ring tomorrow evening," spoke the clover bravely. "It seems you flowers are all too proud to do this, but I would be proud to be of any use to our Queen."

"That is right, little clover," replied the fairy in green. "I thank you for your kind offer. Tomorrow we will have a soft turf of clover in the ring and I am sure the Queen will think it beautiful, even if it is not a flower."

eight, and down her stem shall grow sharp thorns to teach her a lesson. But to this tiny clover I will give a white blossom so sweet that from it the bees shall gather their best honey, and to its stem I will add another leaf, making it four instead of three. And down the coming years the 'four-leaved clover' will be eagerly sought by all as an emblem of good luck."

"I am grateful for all your kindness, fair flowers and good fairies," she said. "But I am most grateful of all to the little clover which forms the carpet on which we tread. I was in the lilac bush yesterday when you were planning this feast and heard what was said. I listened as the proud rose sneered at the clover. Let the rose remember that pride goes before a fall, and that the noblest hearts never boast."

"This wild rose now has a hundred petals. In future she shall have but

"But I don't know what to wish for," she protested.

"Oh, you can think of something," he replied.

"No, I can't," she replied. "I can't think of anything I want very much."

"Well, I'll wish for you," he exclaimed.
